$25 Cheques On Way to 500 Neediest Families

Five hundred of the neediest families in Greater Victoria will find a $25 cheque in their mailboxes today, through the kindness of thousands who contributed to this year's Colonist 500 Fund.

The fund stood at $12,544.78 when it closed at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Five hundred cheques were made out immediately and taken to the post office, where postal officials were standing by to process them and see that they are delivered in time for Christmas shopping.

The extra $44.78 will be carried over to next year's fund.

The $25 cheques, made possible by thousands of donations from people in Greater Victoria, were sent to families who were selected by The Christmas Bureau, a Community Chest agency.

The 500 Fund is an annual service provided by The Daily Colonist in the hopes of making Christmas a happier time for unfortunate families in our community.

Though $25 is not a large amount, it may mean the difference between whether 500 families here have presents under the tree and a special Christmas dinner.

This year's closing list of donations:

Snowballs Protested By Reds

TOKYO (AP)—North Korea charged Tuesday that U.S. soldiers guarding the demilitarized zone have been tossing snowballs at the Communists. The Communists also accused the Americans of "making vile gestures."

John D Urges Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker called Tuesday for a full inquiry into the administration of Canada's immigration department. The Conservative leader was asked by reporters to comment on the request of the New Democrats for a judicial inquiry into the case of Onofrio Minaudo, a man described by U.S. authorities as a Mafia lieutenant, who was ordered deported from Canada in March, 1961, but did not leave until three years later. "There should be a very full inquiry into the administration of the department of immigration," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Hellyer Raps Contract Spreading

By DON GAIN

Victoria and Vancouver may lose out on the shipbuilding phase of a $1,500,000,000 armed forces re-equipment program announced Tuesday by Defence Minister Hellyer.

After announcing his defence spending program, Mr. Hellyer told a news conference in Ottawa that the policy of allocating shipbuilding to different yards across the country was the "most inefficient way ever devised by man to build ships."

Initial reaction in Victoria to the new defence program was good, but shipyard officials here sought clarification about Mr. Hellyer's comments of efficiency.

Rear-Admiral Michael Stirling, flag officer Pacific coast, said he was happy because it shows the navy is here to stay.

"I'm delighted," he said. "Now we will get recruits. There was a feeling that recruiting had stopped. This just isn't so. We need men and we can offer them careers."

"It will improve effectiveness," said Lt.-Col. H. C. F. Elliot, commanding officer, 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. "The purchase of new equipment is good for the army."

"We are most encouraged by this program," said Air Commodore R. C. Weston. "It's in keeping with the vigorous approach to the new look in our armed forces."

Shipyard officials also expressed approval. "Very good news," said Capt. J. V. Steele, general manager of Victoria Machinery Depot.

"We are looking forward to the announcement which must come telling us which ships are going to be built on this coast."

DO OUR BEST
"We are very pleased that an announcement has been made as to definite requirements for the navy and we will be doing our best to win some of the contracts," said John Wallace, general manager of Yarrow Ltd.

Mr. Hellyer, in his subsequent announcement, said he hoped the policy of awarding government contracts would be continued.

Sharp U.S. Warning

Viet Nam Military Told: Don't Interfere

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States served notice Tuesday night that South Viet Nam must have a government free of improper interference by the military if U.S. aid is to continue.

The U.S. state department took this stand in a statement issued with the knowledge and approval of President Johnson. It fully endorsed the actions of U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor to restore civilian authority over the military in Saigon.

Called Conference
Press officer Robert J. McCloskey called a news conference to read the following statement:

"I and others in the department have had inquiries growing out of allegations critical of our ambassador in Saigon as well as of the U.S. government."

FULL SUPPORT
"Ambassador Taylor has been acting throughout with the full support of the U.S. government."

"As we have repeatedly made clear, a duly constituted government exercising full power on the basis of national unity and without improper interference from any group is the essential condition for the successful prosecution of the effort to defeat the Viet Cong and in the basis for U.S. support for that effort."

THIS IS POSITION
"This is the position Ambassador Taylor has been expressing to Vietnamese leaders."

McCloskey said the statement speaks for itself and he would not characterize it as an ultimatum. However, the U.S. officials said the statement was in response to an order of the day broadcast by Gen. Nguyen Khanh in Saigon Tuesday night that referred indirectly to the United States.

Don't Allow Bombs Russia Warns Laos

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has warned against any attempt by South Viet Nam to bomb the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in Laos, even with Laotian permission.

Pro-Western deputy premier of Laos, Phoumi Nosavan, arrived in Saigon Tuesday, reportedly for top-level talks that could result in air strikes against the supply route for the Viet Cong rebels.

In a statement delivered to the Laotian government in Vientiane and made public here Tuesday, the Kremlin did not mention the bombing plan, but made its intention clear.

The Soviet Union said, "If these dangerous plans for spreading the war are not stopped in time... then the dirty war which the Americans are conducting in South Viet Nam can spread to the territory of Laos."

The statement accused the Laotian government of violating the Geneva agreement on Laos.

Bazooka Charges Laid

NEW YORK (AP)—Three men described as Cuban Nationals were charged Tuesday night with having fired a bazooka shot toward the United Nations building Dec. 11 while Cuban minister of industry Ernesto Guevara was speaking.

Break It Up, Judge

CHICAGO (UPI)—Uniformed guards of the U.S. General Services Administration Tuesday raided a Christmas party in the 21st floor press room of Chicago's new federal building and ordered the approximately 50 guests, including U.S. district judges, to disperse.

At least three federal judges, Abraham Lincoln Marovitz, Joseph Sam Perry and Julius Edward Hanrahan were in the room along with nine federal prosecutors, a dozen U.S. marshals and newsmen assigned to the building when the raid occurred.

The GSA acted under a federal law banning drinking on federal reservations.

Search Fails

VANCOUVER (CP)—An intensive air-sea search has failed to turn up any sign of a missing lifeboat or three persons from the wrecked seiner Westerly found wrecked in the Ocean Falls area, RCAF Search and Rescue said Tuesday night.

Six Decide Who'll Live, Die

VANCOUVER (CP)—A jury of six has been chosen to decide who will live and who will die among a small group of chronically ill persons needing kidney treatment at the Vancouver General Hospital.

A necessary cloak of secrecy shrouds the identity of the committee members and only one man, W. A. Street, chairman of the hospital board, knows who they are.

Mr. Street talked of it in an interview Tuesday. Once a patient begins the treatment—under which his blood is artificially purified twice weekly—he is dependent upon it for life.

The committee will have to decide who will be given a life-long lease on the hospital's new treatment program known as chronic dialysis, and artificial-kidney treatment for a very limited number of patients whose kidney function has been destroyed by disease and who otherwise would be doomed to die.

Mr. Street said the committee comprises a jurist, a clergyman, a housewife, a trade unionist, a businessman and a physician.

"I wouldn't have their job for anything," Mr. Street said. "I haven't the foggiest idea how they'll decide between patients."

"That's strictly up to them."

These factors must be taken into consideration:

The very young must be rejected because of difficulties in maintaining permanent connections in their veins and arteries.

The very old are ruled out because the objective is to make the treatment available first to those who have most to live for and who can make the most effective contribution to society.

The treatment program began a few weeks ago with one patient, a 13-year-old ginger-haired boy named Peter.

He has been in hospital about six weeks and is slowly becoming adjusted to a life absolutely dependent upon the artificial kidney, a cumbersome, stainless steel machine somewhat larger than a home washing machine. Its key component is a sandwich of plastic slabs interlarded with sheets of cellophane.

Twice a week the patient must return to the hospital for a 12-hour treatment, although he can carry on a reasonably normal life otherwise.

No one knows exactly how many persons suffer from chronic kidney disease of the type that could be helped by the artificial-kidney treatment.

The physician in charge of the program estimated there might be 100 such patients in the Vancouver area, but of those only 10 would be able to meet the rigid medical criteria which would make them eligible.

With existing equipment and staff, the program could handle nine patients, he said. With more staff it could, theoretically, accommodate 21.

But when available treatment facilities reach near capacity, the case histories of applicants, with their names removed, will be submitted to the committee which will have the final life-or-death decision.

Election Fails

ROME (UPI)—An all-out Christian Democratic drive to elect Giovanni Leone president with neo-Fascist support failed Tuesday forcing a 13th ballot which will equal the record for the longest presidential electoral battle in Europe.

ment shipbuilding contracts to yards across the country would not be followed in the construction of four new helicopter-destroyers and two operational support ships under the new program.

He did not mention what other course might be taken.

Bail Granted After Year

WINNIPEG (CP)—A judge Tuesday granted $20,000 bail for a man held for almost a year on an attempted murder charge. Michael Ambrose, 43, of Rembrandt, Man., was arrested Jan. 21 after shots were fired at two RCMP officers.

Danes Rush For Teapots

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Pretty green jars inscribed "For Marijanna" are a fast seller in a Copenhagen ceramic shop this Christmas for seven kroner ($1). "They are used for marijanna, of course," the shopkeeper said. "It looks silly to have the stuff loose in your pocket."

Brazil Jails Nine Chinese

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Nine Chinese Communists were convicted Tuesday of espionage and sentenced to 10 years in prison. Three of nine Brazilians accused of collaborating with them also were convicted and sentenced to 10 years.

'Insult'

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Algeria Tuesday rejected as an "insult to Africa" any claim that the Congolese government of Premier Moise Tshombe is legal.

"Regional tendering is the only fair way to do it," said Mr. Wallace. He called for a clarification of Mr. Hellyer's definition of efficiency.

"We have a high state of efficiency here on the west coast," he said. "And a very high standard of workmanship. But we are faced with a labor differential of approximately one dollar an hour plus freight rates and other contributing factors."

TEND TO OFFSET "No matter how effective west coast yards might be, these factors tend to offset the advantages achieved by a low man-hour content on any given contract."

Works manager Thomas Moffett of VMD said bids on a man-hour basis rather than dollar value might tend to work to the advantage of Victoria.

"There is no reason why we shouldn't win contracts on this basis because we're just as efficient as eastern yards. We have better weather conditions and the quality of our men is better," he said.

"The clue lies in Mr. Hellyer's definition of efficiency," Mr. Wallace said.

Building costs might seem higher here, he said, but west coast industry and all those people working in it are paying taxes on their earnings.

"The net cost of these contracts to the government could therefore be fairly close to those of eastern yards."

TERRIBLE THING "It would be a terrible thing if the outstanding skills and abilities available to the defence department for shipbuilding in Western Canada were scrapped simply because of either distance or a considerably higher standard of living."

Vietnamese Warned here as an implied criticism of the United States. It was apparent that U.S. officials did not expect Khanh to remain long as armed forces commander.

SUPPORT FOR HUONG But there was support here for the government of Premier Tran Van Huong in trying to work out differences with young military officers who purged the high national council Saturday night.

McCloskey would not say under what conditions U.S. support to South Viet Nam would be withdrawn.

SPECULATE ON COUNCIL There was speculation that a newly constituted high national council would be formed in Saigon with some changes in personnel as a result of resignations in the original 17-man body.

The government and the council have also been under attack by Buddhist groups.

Just what part they would play in any new council was not clear.

The Buddhist leadership last week threatened to bring down the Huong government by hunger strikes and demonstrations. It has been silent since army leaders in a virtual coup dissolved the high national council. In the Saigon broadcast, Khanh made clear he will not accede to American demands for restoration of the high council or quick creation of a suitable equivalent.

MAKE SACRIFICES Khanh said "we make sacrifices for the country's independence and the Vietnamese people's liberty, but not to carry out the policy of any foreign country."

He pledged continued armed forces support for the council's civilian appointees, chief of state Phan Khue Suu and Premier Tran Van Huong.

The deadlock jeopardized U.S. plans to step up military and economic aid to Saigon that has been running as high as $1,500,000 a day. It also stymied talks on plans to extend the war against the Viet Cong guerrillas to Communist supply lines outside South Viet Nam.

Rains Flood West in the U.S. Pacific Northwest. Winds up to 100 miles an hour battered Colorado.

Flood waters and a shattered dike on the raging Eel River near Fortuna in northwestern California chased more than 2,000 residents to higher ground Monday night.

ANIMALS FLEE The Eel flows through sparsely-populated forest country.

Deer, rabbits and thousands of field mice joined man in the flight from the flooding Eel.

Continuing heavy rains spawned floods and slides that closed a 200-mile stretch of U.S. Highway 101 from Willits, Calif., into Oregon. Clogged passes in the Oregon Cascade Mountains blocked Southern Pacific trains "for at least the next 24 hours," an official said.

Montana, reeling from an earlier storm during which tons of hay were airlifted to snow-bound cattle, received more snow and cold in the north. But temperatures in the southern half of the state were mild.

Bribe Inquiry Told:

Wife Was 'Exploited'

OTTAWA (CP) — Raymond Doust, counsel for Lucien Rivard, testified Tuesday that Rivard's wife was exploited last summer by two mysterious men who claimed to have "fixed" the narcotics suspect's future release from jail.

Mr. Doust, 41-year-old Montreal criminal lawyer, told the Dorion judicial inquiry that a certain Masson and an unidentified man probably extracted money from Mrs. Rivard after telling her they had bribed Pierre Lamontagne, counsel for the United States in the Rivard case.

Mr. Doust said he knew his friend Lamontagne would never accept a bribe and advised Mrs. Rivard that the story of the two men was a hoax and that she should stop dealing with them.

WARNED OF STORY
He called Lamontagne in Chicoutimi July 20 to warn him as a favor about the bribe story and to confirm to his heart's content that Lamontagne had not taken any payoff to help obtain bail for Rivard.

Francois Chapados, a Montreal lawyer, later told Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court, who is conducting the inquiry, that he represents Guy Masson.

He declined to identify his client further and said he objected strongly to "leading questions" by other lawyers suggesting that Masson is linked with the underworld.

APPLIED FOR BAIL
Mr. Doust, in the witness box for nearly three hours, said Mrs. Rivard constantly pressed him to seek bail for her husband and that he made a written application Aug. 6 against his better judgment. The application was withdrawn six days later by Rivard's second counsel, Joseph Cohen.

He said he and Mr. Cohen agreed it would be unfair to Mr. Lamontagne to apply for bail just after rumors had circulated in Montreal that the latter had received a $20,000 bribe to drop his opposition to bail.

Rivard has been held in Bordeaux Jail in Montreal since June 19, awaiting extradition to the U.S. to face charges in Laredo, Texas, that he smuggled heroin for a Mafia-controlled international ring.

REJECTED BRIBE
Mr. Lamontagne testified last week that he rejected a $20,000 bribe to help free Rivard as soon as it was offered in Ottawa July 14 by Raymond Denis, a 31-year-old Montreal lawyer who then was executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay.

Mr. Lamontagne also testified that Guy Rouleau, chairman of the Liberal caucus and former parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, and two ministerial assistants all put political pressure on him to go easy on Rivard's bail application.

FELL ASLEEP
Earlier Tuesday, Mrs. Joan Lamontagne testified briefly about a meeting she and her husband Pierre had in their Ottawa hotel room with Mr. Denis late on the night of July 14-15.

She said they had a few drinks of rye. The men had discussed the Rivard case in French but she had paid no attention and had fallen asleep in a twin bed in the same room. After Mr. Denis left around

3:30 or 4 a.m., her husband had awakened her. "He was very excited and anxious to tell me what had happened between him and Raymond (Denis)."

COUNSEL OBJECTS
Guy Guerin, counsel for Mr. Denis, objected that Mrs. Lamontagne should not be permitted to give hearsay evidence about what her husband had told her concerning his talk with Mr. Denis.

Judge Dorion agreed with Mr. Guerin but later this report of Mrs. Lamontagne got into the record.

"Raymond (Denis) was a friend, and after he offered Pierre the money he was still a friend."

MORE CONCERNED
Mrs. Lamontagne said her husband became gradually more concerned in August "because more people were bothering him" to get bail for Rivard.

Mr. Doust was scheduled to return to the witness box today but he told Judge Dorion he wished to return to Montreal to attend his father who had suffered a heart attack earlier in the day. The judge said Mr. Doust could complete his testimony next week.

'Door Always Open'

OTTAWA (CP)—"The door is always open," Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Tuesday, three days after his Quebec lieutenant, Leon Balcer, said he may walk out of the Conservative party to sit in the Commons as an independent.

But Mr. Diefenbaker made it clear this was not an unconditional invitation for a reconciliation. "Mr. Balcer's stand cannot be ascribed to me," he said.

Since Mr. Balcer, former Conservative transport minister, said he is "very seriously considering" the possibility of leaving the party, other members of the party's Quebec wing have been expressing widely differing viewpoints on what they might do.

There were pretty firm indications Tuesday night that the mid-January caucus of the 10 Quebec Conservative members of the Commons will not result in a mass walkout from the party.

While Paul Martineau (Pontiac-Teniscumlingue) said he would "take my lead, assess my position and make my decision" in the light of Mr. Balcer's move, Louis-Joseph Pigeon (Joliette—L'Assomption-Montcalm) said he would not leave the party.

WON'T LEAVE
"I respect Mr. Balcer's view but he has his opinion and I have mine. There is no question of me leaving the Conservatives."

Renal Paul (Berthier-Maskinonge-Delanaudiere) was con-using to get the views of his electorate. "Of those I have spoken to so far, not one has approached me for wishing, possibly, to disassociate myself from the leader of the Conservative party."

But Howard Graffley (Brome-Missisquoi) said: "I have never considered, I am not now considering, and I never shall consider running as an independent. I'll never entertain the thought."

And Theogene Ricard (St. Hyacinthe-Bagot) said: "I've been elected as a Conservative four times and I am still a Conservative. I don't plan making any alteration in my political allegiance."

Lords Could Delay Anti-Hanging Bill

LONDON (Reuters) — The bill in 1957, a compromise bill was passed which retained hanging only for certain types of murder.

The House of Commons is expected to speed along a bill to abolish the death penalty in Britain but its supporters fear it may hit snags in the House of Lords.

The Commons voted 355 to 170 Monday night to give the bill second reading.

The Lords rejected full abolition of the death penalty in 1957.

If it rejects the bill after three readings, the Commons has one year to pass it again, and if it does the bill becomes law.

After the Lords rejected the Generous Response

ONCE AGAIN THE response to the Colonist 500 Fund has been widespread and generous and this newspaper is grateful to the kindly Christmas spirit that has moved the many and varied donors and volunteer agencies who have contributed so splendidly to this annual appeal.

Cheques are being forwarded this morning, each in the sum of $25, to the 500 selected needy families and individuals, who thus will enjoy the bounty of that little monetary "extra" which is commonplace in most homes, and be blessed by this humane expression of goodwill.

It will mean for them a warmth of the hearth that is so desirable over the Yuletide season, and bring comfort and good cheer to the recipients of so Christian a gesture by readers of the Colonist.

It has been heartening to note each day the range and amplitude of the donors to the 500 Fund as the contributions came in. School children, office and plant workers, clubs and societies of differing kinds, trade union and service personnel, business concerns and individuals of many bents—all these and others have shown their concern for those less fortunately placed than themselves, and by their kindness made this Christmas appeal so fruitful.

In the name of those whose Christmas will be greatly brightened by so handsome a response the Colonist expresses its thanks and deep appreciation.

The Colonist is grateful also to the local postal officials, who take special measures to see that these goodwill cheques are delivered in time to be of service before Christmas Day. Their co-operation in this respect is always forthcoming, and it ensures the happy completion of the 500 Fund in the spirit that is the fount of its success.

Back to Restriction?

FOR SEVERAL YEARS Victoria has been happily free of the controversy that used to attend the regulation of shopping hours by city council. Permitted to do so by provincial legislation, the council withdrew from exercising its authority in this field, leaving merchants to decide for themselves when they would open and close their doors. The chaos predicted by some advocates of restriction never arrived. The orderly new trading pattern that emerged seems well suited to the needs and wants of the public.

It is somewhat disturbing, in view of this generally beneficial progress, to note that Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell has promised the British Columbia Retail Merchants Association to discuss with his cabinet colleagues how the Municipal Act could be once more amended to bring about uniformity in closing hours. The association's complaint is that too many municipalities are still retaining control of this aspect of business enterprise are trying to outdo one another in allowing late shopping.

The cabinet would do well to take a good, hard look at Victoria's example when it thinks about compelling all councils to impose uniform closing hours. It surely would be regarded by most citizens of this community as a retrogressive step if the mayor and aldermen were again required to fetter competition aimed at the convenience of the shoppers; nor would the city fathers welcome a return to the wrangling over what to do about corner stores and drug stores selling full lines of goods after the other retail outlets had closed in compliance with the law.

Why Not?

IT WILL BE A PITY if the fetish about amateurs not competing with professionals deprives the Russian Olympic hockey players from testing their mettle against top calibre teams before they leave Canada for home.

Barkis in the shape of NHL clubs is willing, but the bugaboo of distinction has been raised. This is a relic of the old social concept that classified amateurs as gentlemen and professionals merely as players.

It has been outmoded in substance in many sports but still lingers on. And nowadays the distinction is farcical. There is scarcely a simon pure amateur athlete or club to be found anywhere. Shamateurism is life in many sporting activities.

One can appreciate on the grounds of skill levels the separation of amateur games players, suspect though these may be, and professionals. This is useful to keep the balance of play and provide even competition. In the case of the Russian hockey players, however, a game against an NHL team or one of its farm clubs would simply be an exhibition.

Having been undefeated during its Canadian tour against teams of its own official status the Soviet team is anxious to measure itself against quality professional opposition. As a matter of courtesy alone such a game is desirable. But beyond that it is of interest to Canadian hockey to appraise how close the Russians are getting to the highest calibre of the game. The day will probably dawn when Soviet players are able to hold their own with the best in this country. Already in fact it has been forecast that in time they may even challenge for the Stanley Cup.

It is to be hoped therefore the international rules can be waived to allow the visiting Russians a chance to match their skills in top-level company. It would be a pointer to the future.

MR. GREGOIRE: Mr. Speaker, I would like to parody a vituperous statement made by Cicero in his famed Catiline Orations where he was attacking Catiline, the Roman despot. By substituting the name of the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Diefenbaker) to that of Catiline, I would say, with Cicero:

Quo usque tandem abutere Diefenbaker, patientia nostra?
Quamdiu etiam iste furor tuus nos eludet?
Quemquam ad finem sese effrenata iactabit audacia?

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Order.

Mr. Dupuis: There are two official languages here. Mr. Deputy Speaker: Has the hon. member concluded his remarks? The Chair cannot determine whether his last words were intended to close his remarks or not.

"Incidentally, Madam, calling me a 'stuffy old pig' every time we pass in the street won't improve your chance of a loan."

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax ...

By TOM TAYLOR

THE other day I meandered about the periodic sequences we call Time. I have a gripe, this "time," to air. I mentioned that to keep on an even keel society adopts a method of division by which it can measure its current sequences, like the hands of a clock and the calendar days of the week and month, et al.

There should be some revision of this arbitrary process. For instance, As I write this a news item reminds us that the first official day of winter has arrived. I need only look out the window to see what has been going on for a week, and if this is just the beginning then the outlook is bleak indeed.

I have what seems to me to be the entirely logical notion that if December 21 is the shortest day then this should be the middle of winter and not the start. I grant you that the days take a deuce of a "time" to lengthen thereafter, and that the position of earth and sun is the underlying factor, but still fall in the shape of weather often takes scant account of the latter anyway, and it would be comforting if one could plume oneself that these winter days are half-way over.

Even in imagination. I think I have expressed this grumble previously in this space, but as one sporting star says on a TV commercial, "I've said it before and I'll say it again"—apropos a soap or a razor or something—if he why not me?

When summer comes—and soon may it come over the horizon—I am afflicted by the same kind of dissent. Here, too, the date on the calendar doesn't square with my idea of things.

Surely the longest day should also be the middle of summer instead of ITS beginning? Mind you, and I admit this is perversity and not consistency, I don't press the argument when summer weather puts official dawn to shame by prolonged sunshine and clear balmy days and weeks.

In the years, that is, when summer doesn't forget its duty. I don't object at all then to the calendar setting at nought the prescribed solstice.

But even so if these divisions have an official sequence the reality should be complementary. No?

It will be a tad, I suppose, that keeps buzzing thru my head.

I have another one, due to arrive when 1965 is ushered in.

This date, January 1, I like to envisage as turning a corner at right angles straight into spring, for as you know if winter comes, then ...

True enough it takes a bit of imagination to let one's fancy anticipate so far, especially when one is reminded that officially we are just starting the winter, and not, as I affirm should be the case, right in the middle of it.

And when the January gales come, as come no doubt they will, it takes a deal of fortitude to hold to the illusion.

But it helps to put in the "time" until nature comes to life again, the trees reverse their strip-tease, and the human spirit gets a lift.

The trouble is when nature in the form of weather seems to agree with the winter solstice date; then my whim is apt to be sadly scorned.

Ah well, I am but whistling to keep my courage up, and years too happening you are thinking that currently we are being roughly dealt with.

pression made so far in the effort at birth control as an offset to death control.

In Pakistan, where the impression is that American aid is used to greater advantage than in perhaps any other country, the net population increase may be around 3 per cent a year because the Pakistanis are more ready to experiment and less insistent on ideology and reform. All the indicators—investment growth rate, savings—are higher. With an economic growth rate of 5 to 7 per cent there may be a net gain over and above mere subsistence for more and more mouths to feed.

But this is not true elsewhere in the underdeveloped area where people continually threaten to curtail official resources. Egypt, despite official gestures in the direction of birth control, has one of the highest rates of increase in the world and that increase promises to absorb the production coming out of the Aswan Dam project. The rising tide of peoples creates not only economic but political pressures threatening the costly effort to achieve stability.

Example No. 1 in this department are the so-called students. With the rising demand for status evidenced by a B.A. or an M.A. degree and a white-collar job, the "students" have become in almost every country a built-in source of riot and disorder. They flood into inadequate and badly staffed colleges and universities and their discontent is exploited for political ends.

The "students" burned down the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library here ostensibly in protest against the Belgian-American rescue operation in Stanleyville in the Congo. In India students are known to beat up professors who give examinations considered too stiff. In Pakistan they riot, burn buses and stone passenger cars for various demands, including shortening the term for a B.A. degree from three years to two and cutting the requirement for a law degree to two years.

A college degree is too often a ticket to unemployment or to a lowly bureaucratic paper-shuffling job. So even with the new status acquired with great sacrifice, the discontent grows. It is out of these partly-educated malcontents that revolution has historically come.

Hysteria, frenzy, growing communal and tribal hatreds—these are the by-products of population pressure. The race is between reason—the organized effort to achieve stability with many men of goodwill in every nation working to this end—and the violent passions of unreason. So great are the hazards and uncertainties that only a venture some bookmaker would quote the odds on the outcome of this race.

New Republic

By GAVIN YOUNG from Nairobi

A NEW and trickier phase of Anglo-Kenyan relations began in this African former British colony when it became a republic within the Commonwealth after a year of independence.

Republic is jamhuri in Swahili but talk in Nairobi has been as much on uhuru (freedom) as it was before independence. Many Kenyans who feel that independence has not brought the degree of instant happiness they had expected regard the new celebrations as a second chance.

But flags and bunting cannot obscure what the furor over a British newspaper report of subversive machinations by a senior minister, Oginga-Odinga, has underlined: that national unity in Kenya is a very tender plant.

The unifying premise of the stolid, watchful father figure of Kenyan nationalism, Jomo Kenyatta, who has moved from prime minister to president, is, if anything, more essential than ever now. Active as he still is, the fact cannot be ignored that Kenyatta is over 70.

You deserve a great deal of thanks and respect for the fight you put up to keep the Red Ensign as the official flag of Canada.

When the next election comes, here I feel as a layman I know a little of whence I speak.

There is one point I feel should be brought to the attention of the public and the powers that be, that is the large number of our older comrades of the First World War who go towards making up the patient roster of this hospital.

I feel it is the fine care our orderlies are giving to these "old sweats who are on their last run up the line" that makes their job at least as onerous if not more so than their counterparts in the Jubilee and St. Joseph's, and in my mind fully entitles them to equal pay.

Even if they want to.

Mr. Jo Grimond, who has my respect and often my admiration—and that's no light curse—should watch the over-rapid conjunction of his sentences.

Writing in his column about a cause in which I am in complete union with him—the abolition of capital punishment—he refers to a case when, as a lawyer, he was defending a murderer:

"As far as I could tell," writes Mr. Grimond, "he was an ordinary man. Like many people, he drank too much. He killed his best friend."

I think Mr. Grimond short-circuits his sentences.

Most ordinary people don't drink too much and most ordinary people don't kill their best friends.

ruled out so long as the Luo faction continues to barrow busily and selectively into positions of power.

Undoubtedly, Odinga has been steadily building his own loyal cadre within Kenya African Nationalist Union (KANU) organizations with Communist help.

Present extremist exasperation with Britain bodes ill for the future. "If we want to become Communist what's it got to do with Britain?" an influential official asked.

The answer is, of course, that as long as Kenya remains in the Commonwealth, as long as Britain accounts for over 30 per cent of Kenya's imports and her exports depend overwhelmingly on the agricultural products of British companies, ranchers, and small farmers, Kenya's political progress will remain of interest and justifiable interest.

One grave source of Anglo-Kenyan friction lies in a possible refusal of the British government to provide money for Kenya to buy out the remaining British farmers who are ignored to sell.

If the money is not forthcoming Kenyan land hunger may well provide the political springboard for a disastrous showdown on this issue.

There are a few Chinese to be seen in the streets of Nairobi but none in government offices, the army or the police, where there are still about 2,000 Britons.

Overseas Chaps

Welcome, Stranger

By CASSANDRA from London

"HOME sickness among foreign students," says Mr. F. E. Bell, principal of a language school at Cambridge, "is most noticeable at breakfast time. Landladies do not realize this; they slap a student on the back and put a hearty breakfast in front of him when this is not always the thing to do."

Odd chaps, these foreigners. I should have thought that a tremendous blow between the shoulderblades from a muscular, strapping British landlady at about seven in the morning was just the thing to cheer up a thin native student from Ceylon. He obviously wants bolstering up when about to go to college through a freezing chemically-impregnated London fog.

Let the feller have a huge glutinous plate of slightly burnt porridge before the London School of Economics gets to work on him. None of these fancy Oriental dishes like fresh pineapple or pawpaw.

You've got to lay the foundation for these overseas chappies.

After the fortifying slap on the back and the porridge—if he's still breathing—put a decent wedge of cod fish in front of the lad. Something to get his teeth into.

Then let him have a whack at a huge trough of all that cereal food that looks like brown paper and tastes like fried plywood chippings.

Build him up. Give him some honest bangs: real hefty bangs with skins like gutta-percha and fillings of gray minced rubber that get right down among the vitals of small dark men unaccustomed to the Anglo-Saxon cold.

Feed him on great dainties of toast, gobs of marmalade, and steaming, splashing cups of tea that erode teaspoons like boiling water melts ice.

Make a man of him. Make him feel really at home.

Welcome, thin dark stranger!

The object of the Feed the Minds campaign is to encourage Christian reading by the newly literate peoples throughout the world—and few will quarrel with that.

But the Bible-reading marathon to promote it strikes me as distinctly odd.

All marathons, whether they be long-distance dancing, pole-squatters or spaghetti-eating contests, are bizarre activities, and to bet the Bible either consciously or unconsciously mixed up with them seems to me to be a mistake.

In a photograph of Mr. George Brown reading from the lectern in St. Andrew's Church, Holborn, the congregation seems to have been very sparse. The seventeen-hour non-stop reading probably had as its main audience the scores of speakers who took part.

It all seems stultish and rather remote from the shores of Lake Galilee.

Mr. Jo Grimond, who has my respect and often my admiration—and that's no light curse—should watch the over-rapid conjunction of his sentences.

Writing in his column about a cause in which I am in complete union with him—the abolition of capital punishment—he refers to a case when, as a lawyer, he was defending a murderer:

"As far as I could tell," writes Mr. Grimond, "he was an ordinary man. Like many people, he drank too much. He killed his best friend."

I think Mr. Grimond short-circuits his sentences.

Most ordinary people don't drink too much and most ordinary people don't kill their best friends.

Even if they want to.

Death Ends Mercy Trip

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A seven-year-old boy died here despite a 40-mile, gale-raked mercy trip by the RCMP boat Nanaimo.

The lad survived the boat trip, but the ambulance to hospital bogged down in heavy snow and the boy was dead on arrival.

UN Arm Could Be Broken

Crisis May Close Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Security Council, top peace-keeping arm of the United Nations, may become inoperative for an indefinite period starting Jan. 1 because of the deadlock over UN members' financial responsibility. There appeared to be slight hope Tuesday that the 11-nation council can be legally reconstituted after Dec. 31 as required by the UN charter.

The General Assembly cannot elect new council members in the absence of a Soviet-American agreement on sharing costs of UN peace-keeping operations. Agreement seemed remote. Diplomats pointed out that agreement "in principle" would not be enough to permit elections. The assembly has been in session since Dec. 1 under a "no-voting" agreement. Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana was chosen president by acclamation but no other officers were elected.

The charter requires that the new council members be elected for two-year terms by the end of the year.

But Jordanian ambassador Abdul Monem Rifai said he saw almost no hope of installing a new security council by Jan. 1.

'Greatness Of France Needs Bomb'

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Georges Pompidou said Tuesday his government had placed "an absolute priority" on building nuclear weapons because it was the only means of keeping France a modern country.

"... the atomic weapon is the only way to make a politically great country at this time," he said.

Pompidou reviewed government action of the past four months in a nationwide television interview. The key topics were defense, the budget, the five-year plan, the Common Market cereal agreement of Dec. 15 and the domestic labor and agricultural unrest.

Toys ready for Santa to pick up.

They'll Give 5,000 Toys

The Salvation Army's toyland in the Johnson Street Thrift Shop opened Monday for distribution of more than 5,000 toys to welfare recipients.

Anyone on welfare who wants free toys for Christmas can obtain a voucher from their welfare worker for the toys. Distribution of the toys at Christmas is the result of a year-long effort by various social service organizations in the city.

This is the first year it has been handled by the social service department of the Salvation Army.

The W. H. Frederiksen family, 70 Caton Place, this year collected more than 1,000 toys for distribution by the toyland. Some of the toys had to be repaired and this also was done by the family, which collects the toys throughout the year.

Department stores, as well as individuals, donated toys.

Liquor Strike Continues

Quebec Drinkers Turning to Beer

MONTREAL (CP)—Chances of Quebecers celebrating Christmas with their usual home supply of liquor appear pretty slim.

The strike of 2,300 Quebec

Liquor Board employees, which shut down all wine and liquor outlets in the province, was no closer to solution than it was when it began 18 days ago. And there are only two days left to Christmas.

Lorne Powers, board chairman, said there were no negotiations conducted Tuesday. "The union told us they would study our proposal for a seniority clause and they would phone us. We're waiting for their call."

BEER SELLING: Union officials were not available for comment.

At the moment, those likely to be hit hardest by the strike are wage earners who wait to get in their liquor supply with the Christmas week pay cheques. But some night clubs that had stocked up in anticipation of a strike were reported to have run out of supplies for the first time.

Beer sales continued to show sharp increases after the dearth of liquor caused by the prolonged strike.

Field Yields War Remains

DUNKERQUE, France (UPI)—A French farmer has discovered a British stronghold of the 1914-18 war in a Flanders field. It contained the skeletons of two soldiers, rifles and ammunition, belts, helmets, and even pipes and shaving brushes.

The farmer was plowing a field when he turned up a pair of army boots. He called police who found the remains of the stronghold under a large sheet of metal. The equipment was reported in reasonably good condition.

Falling Leaves May Make Song a Hit

TORONTO — Six months ago Toronto song writer Ben Kerr composed what he was sure would be a lasting hit — Three Red Leaves on a White Background. It was recorded and he waited for Parliament to act. Now Mr. Kerr is back working on a new song—One Red Leaf on a White Background."

NEW YORK — A holdup man got away with $3,740 when he robbed Philip Terman, who was accompanied by a trained doberman pinscher watchdog, Duke. The robber ordered Terman to tell the dog to lie down and Duke made no effort to protect his master, who had spent $300 training the dog.

MANNHEIM, West Germany — Hungry-striking soldier Pte. Scott Burchill has been flown back to the United States and will be discharged from the army. Burchill started a hunger strike nearly a month ago, refusing to wear a uniform or accept army pay on the basis he was a conscientious objector.

EDMONTON — The only person able to get $5,000 worth of political activity out of a $5 traffic ticket is Phil Gagliardi. Alderman Angus McGowan said in reference to a highly-publicized minor accident in which the B.C. highway minister was involved this fall.

DALLAS, Tex. — Angus Wynne Jr. of Dallas has filed documents with the federal bankruptcy referee showing that he is almost $7,000,000 in debt.

TUEBINGEN, Germany — Two former Nazi SS men have been convicted of complicity in the mass murder of Jews at Stutthof Concentration Camp in Poland and sentenced to prison terms of 12 and six years. They are Otto Haupt, 68, and Bernhard Luedtke, 56, both former camp guards.

Names In the News

TORONTO — Ontario Premier John Robarts has refused to tell a press conference if Ontario has decided to leave the Canada Pension Plan.

QUEBEC — Ella Lasnier, a Quebec poetess, has won the Camille-Roy literary prize for her work. Object of the prize, which carries a $1,500 award, is to recognize the value of French language books and novels.

HAVANA — Professor Andre Vaisin, 63, of the French Academy of Science, lecturing in Cuba at the invitation of Premier Fidel Castro, has died of a heart attack.

STOCKHOLM — The Swedish Supreme Court has upheld sentences on two former officers of Sweden's United Nations peace-keeping force in Cyprus who admitted trying to smuggle arms to Turkish-Cypriots. Helge Hjalmarsson and Lars Lindh each will serve eight months at hard labor and be dismissed from the army.

JERUSALEM — Premier-designate Levi Eshkol announced he had formed a new cabinet to end Israel's one-week government crisis.

HOUSTON — The Duke and Duchess of Windsor have wished the world a Merry Christmas. Britain's former monarch will spend the holiday in Methodist Hospital, where doctors say he is recovering well from surgery.

Pope Repeats Plea

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul renewed his appeal to the great world powers Tuesday to end the armaments race and use the money saved for humanitarian ends.

"Hunger and misery, sickness and ignorance still cry out for remedy," he said in his annual Christmas message to the world.

He made a similar appeal in Bombay earlier in the month.

Saanich Reeve Urges Personnel Department

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis has proposed the creation of a personnel department for the municipal staff.

Initially council's personnel committee of Reeve Curtis, Coun. Joe Casey and Comptroller John Tribe has proposed creation of a new staff position—personnel officer and assistant to the comptroller.

In time, the reeve said, this will develop "into a fully-operative personnel post" but will start as a combination job assisting the comptroller with day-to-day details.

UPGRADED STATUS
The reeve also proposes to up-grade the status of the personnel committee within the council structure by adding a third councillor, making it a standing committee, and by holding more meetings.

"When an organization reaches this size," Reeve Curtis said, "it should have someone specifically ally handling personnel matters."

Personnel will become a small but efficient department, the reeve says, under direct control of the comptroller and controlled by council through the personnel committee.

OUTSIDE WORKERS

Saanich now has 196 salaried employees compared with 140 in 1959. In addition, there are about 100 outside workers paid by the hour.

A written summary of the committee's proposals probably will be presented at the first meeting of council next year.

If council approves the proposals, the new position will initially be advertised among the municipal staff, said Reeve Curtis.

Salary range will be $514 to $624.

A cabinet order Tuesday provided that a council, by vote of at least two-thirds of its members, may "grant aid to any university or universities as continued or constituted and established under the Universities Act wherever situated in the province."

Police Seek Accident Witnesses

Police are seeking witnesses to an accident Saturday morning at Bay and Howe.

In worsened condition at St. Joseph's Hospital is David Rigg, 3442 Henderson. The retired naval officer suffered head injuries in the collision.

Negligence Hearing Set Jan. 13

A preliminary hearing is to be held Jan. 13 for a Sooke man charged with criminal negligence after five men were bowled over by a car Nov. 23.

Sooke RCMP arrested Robert Nelson, 22, at Port Renfrew shortly after the incident in a parking lot beside the Sooke community hall.

Injured were John McKee, Port Renfrew, broken leg; Scott Robinson, Sooke, hip injury; James Ballandyne, Port Renfrew, broken ankle.

Mr. Robinson is still undergoing treatment at the Gorge Road Hospital. His condition was described as improved.

The hearing will be before Magistrate William Ostler at Saanich Central Court, said police.

Gilbey's describe how to garnish a dry martini

Some gins have rather strong flavouring. Others are utterly tasteless. Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance for the classic dry martini. A dry flavour that has been the international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

Since its invention the dry martini has always been graced with an olive. Very proper with the pit left in. Stuffed olives are acceptable, too.

Figurine Theft Brings Jail

An attractive 22-year-old woman was sentenced to four months in jail Tuesday in city magistrate's court for theft of two imported figurines from Woodward's Stores (Victoria) Ltd. Dec. 12.

Magistrate William Ostler imposed the sentence on Gladys Towsteg, also known as Tracey Rush, of 2656 Blackwood.

The magistrate said he was satisfied the Crown had proved the charge in spite of "ingenious and skillful" defence cross-examination that destroyed evidence by the manager of the china department where the figurines were stolen.

Dermot Owen-Flood was defence counsel.

Crown counsel T. P. O'Grady told court Miss Towsteg was on probation at the time of the offence.

A two-year sentence for a similar offence had been suspended in 1963 by a magistrate at Langley, B.C.

Two Saanich 18-year-olds were sent to Oakalla young offenders' unit for their attempt to steal a purse from a china store employee Dec. 10.

Gerald Parker, 615 Ferndale, and Charles Peterson, 271 Cadillac, had been found guilty of attempted theft Dec. 16.

Magistrate Ostler sentenced both to terms of eight months definite and four months indefinite.

In an afternoon preliminary hearing the magistrate said he intends to commit Robert Peter Martynaszyn, 1731 Mortimer, for trial.

The 27-year-old Saanich man is charged with breaking and entering an apartment at 1720 Newton, Nov. 30.

Apartment tenant Mrs. Joan Wells and other witnesses described the disappearance of a quantity of meat from the Wells' refrigerator.

Christmas Tree Golf Moves to Uplands

A wet heavy fall of snow early on Tuesday morning has put the Royal Colwood Golf Club out of commission for the 11th annual Christmas Tree tournament on Saturday, Dec. 26.

Several inches lay on the course, and although there was some thawing, President Don Ross said it was unlikely that the snow, even under most favorable conditions, could disappear in time for the event.

The Daily Colonist is glad to announce that the president and directors of the Uplands Golf Course have kindly consented to step into the breach, and have offered the use of their course for the event, if subsequent weather conditions make play possible on Saturday.

Uplands president John Tribe informed The Daily Colonist that the club, which has had a 10-year association with the Christmas Tree tournament, was most anxious that the continuity of the event should not be broken for the first time.

The situation at the moment then is that if the course is open, the tournament will be played at Uplands instead of Colwood.

So far as is possible, the program will not be changed. The draw and starting times announced last Sunday for Royal Colwood will still apply, and the managers of the two clubs are co-operating with a view to handling catering arrangements for the 150 players.

The Daily Colonist is grateful to the Uplands Club for its fine gesture in giving the tournament a "second chance."

At the same time it must be pointed out that Uplands is also snow covered, and it could be that it will not have melted in time for Saturday.

The chances at the time of writing are perhaps not much better than 50-50, but those who have entered will be given further news in the Colonist on Thursday and Friday, by which time it is expected a firm decision can be made.

Leafs Edge Seals, 4-3 Thrive Under Pressure

By JIM TANG

Victoria Maple Leafs must have set a new club record at Memorial Arena last night—they held a one-goal lead for 15 minutes.

And it was the last 15 minutes of the game, bringing them a 4-3 win over San Francisco's shocked Seals, who had been aspiring to a somewhat higher position in the Western Hockey League than the one they wrestled from the Leafs less than two weeks ago.

Perhaps even more acceptable than the badly-needed two points was the proof in that final 15 minutes that the Leafs can hold up against the pressure of a trailing club which had let the game get out of its hands.

Spirit was the big item last night. Back Monday night after a road trip in which they lost four of five games played in eight days, the Leafs looked headed for another loss after a listless first period in which they dropped behind, 2-0.

But what a different club came out after that first intermission. It was an aggressive blue-and-white team, willing to knock heads, always going for the puck and refusing to be discouraged by bad breaks and penalties which stalled only temporarily a thoroughly-spirited attack and defence which upset a San Francisco club which had thought it had things pretty much under control.

Leafs cut the lead in the second minute of the second period, yielded only one goal — while they were two men short — in a stubborn defensive stand in which they played shorthanded for five successive minutes, then returned to the business of getting back what they had given away.

It took them until the third period, and how they did it will be something the Seals will remember for some time — if beat Bob Perreault with a fine shot.

Bobby Taylor got tagged almost immediately for charging Gerry Odrowski, but the pugnacious rookie defenceman never enjoyed two minutes more.

Gordie Redahl, who can score from impossible-looking angles because he is a left-handed shot playing the right side, tied it up after taking a pass from John Sleaver, catching the far side with a high shot only 32 seconds after the steaming Taylor had settled down to serve his time.

FOUR BACK

Larry Keenan supplied what was to be the winner 86 seconds later, "breaking" away after getting the puck from goal-keeper Al Millar. Four Seals were back to defend Bob Perreault and everybody got too casual about it as Keenan swung around Gary Dornhoefer and whipped a shot past the over-confident San Francisco goal-keeper.

One goal leads, particularly so early in the third period, haven't meant much in Victoria but this night it was different.

BEST EFFORTS

With veteran defencemen Claude Labrosse, voted the star of the game, and Bill Shvets, with perhaps his best effort of the season, leading a dour defence, the Leafs held out.

Millar, more than making amends for guessing wrong on the first goal, came up with at least three brilliant saves, and all three forward lines did their part with hard skating and tenacious checking.

It was a pity there were only 1,700 fans out. The faithful, as they always eventually are, were more than rewarded.

Hawaii Acquires 28 Players

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Houston, business manager of Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club, announced Tuesday that 28 players from the International League team have been transferred to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League.

The Leafs, who had a partial working agreement previously with Washington Senators made the transfers in view of prospects that they may have a working agreement with Boston Red Sox of the American League.

Hawaii is the new Triple-A farm team of the Senators. The transfer reduces the Leaf roster to two players. They are second-baseman Bob Sadowald and pitcher John Anderson.

IT'S Beermanship SEASON

2 SHOPPING DAYS FOR THE LIGHTER BEER

Last September, a crew from Ontario went to British Columbia to help collect eggs and bring them back after partial incubation.

Officials haven't made any predictions about the kokanee's reaction to Great Lake waters, but they hope they have found an answer for commercial fishermen whose catches have been dwindling in past years.

The kokanee, with flesh resembling that of the sockeye salmon, has been known to grow to 24 inches and eight pounds.

Aussie Team To Pass Up U.S. Tourneys

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australia's official touring tennis team will bypass the U.S. championships next year. The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia made that known Monday night in announcing it would send a young team overseas.

The team wasn't identified but is expected to include Owen Davidson, John Newcombe, Tony Roche and Bill Bowery.

Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle, the country's top Davis Cup stars, will travel independently and probably will play at Forest Hills.

Murray's Review of Current and Choice

By JIM MURRAY

Well, it's that time of the year again. Ho, Ho, Ho, and all that jazz. Chestnuts roasting in every column. I would like, as a service to you, to cull the best of the Christmas books you might want to give to a loved one, particularly the kids, with special emphasis on the inspirational volumes.

So, with apologies to Clifton Fadiman and Art Buchwald, not to mention Ralph Henry Barbour and Walter Camp, here are the best of the lot:

"THE FURTHER ADVENTURES OF BLACK BEAUTY"

—This heart-warming tale of a lass and her horse should be in every library. It tells the touching story of a horse found in his stall with a broken leg and the trainer wants to shoot it when the young girl of the family (see about Loretta Young for the role) throws herself across the animal and says, "No, no. Let me try to save him." And she makes a special sling and feeds him sugar for three years and, lo and behold, he can run again even though he has a slight limp. Then one day they put a clock on him and he breaks the track record by 10 seconds; so they enter him in the Kentucky Derby and nobody thinks he has a chance.

And it turns out he doesn't. Because, coming out of the starting gate, his leg snaps again and he racks up the whole field and three other horses die with him and two jockeys get broken collar-bones and double-vision. And the trainer says, "you see three years ago I told you to shoot him. But does anybody listen to me? Not when you bat those big beautiful eyes, they don't." And the girl says, "I'm sorry."

"FIGHTING FOOTBALL — OR, 40 YEARS WITH THE FIGHTING FLEMISH"

—This tells the story of old coach Rockhead and his famous football team climaxed in the famous locker room scene where the team is behind 100-6 at the half and the coach stands there with tears streaming down his cheeks. He says, "boys, my sainted grandmother is right now at death's door and the only thing I know of that can save her is for us to go out there and fight, fight, fight. And win this game against Army." Just then, the phone rang, and the coach answered it and listened for a minute. Then he hung up and said to the boys, "That was the doctor, boys. He said it wouldn't mean a thing to her condition one way or the other whether we won or lost. So forget it."

"TEN SECONDS TO PLAY"

—This is the story of the 97-pound weakling who went out for football and everyone laughed and laughed. So, he lifted weights and built himself up and practised with the varsity for four years. Finally, one day, in The Big Game, there were only 10 seconds to play and the coach looked down and saw this kid and said, "All right, son, for four years you've been begging me to let you play and my entire backfield is wiped out. Go in there and show what you're made of."

So the kid went in and fumbled.

"THE KILLER INSTINCT"

This is the story of a tough kid from the slums who came up the hard way and finally became middle-weight champion of the world. And one night he was defending his title when the Mafia (they were having their annual parade that day) came in the dressing room and said, "Kid, we've got big money riding on this fight. We'll give you $100,000 to throw it." The kid stood up, a steely glint in his eye and he said, "Big Tony, I was born on the other side of the tracks and I was a tough kid. A lot of people had faith in me, like the warden, and a lot of kids are looking up to me and I don't want to disappoint them. So, could you make it out to 'cash'?"

"THE HEART OF BASEBALL"

Tells the untold story of "Sluggo" McCoy. All the public saw of Slug was the swaggering braggart. Few knew of the many goods he performed, but they are all recounted here by his good friend (and press agent) Sick O'Fant. Few knew that Slug was a sucker for a hard-luck story. Anybody who came to him down and out got a loan. At one eight per cent, and once an old lady's hat blew off and Slug told her which way it went.

Slug never liked to get any publicity on his hospital trips, but the book tells of the time he went to see little Butch Kelly. The kid was dangerously ill and Old Slug tried not to blubber as he looked at the wan little face and said, "Kid, just for you, this afternoon against the Cardinals, I'm going to hit three home runs." And little Butch looked bravely up at him through his tears and said "Mr. McCoy, how could that possibly help me?"

Also big this year are the "how to" books, "HOW TO PLAY POLO," "HOW TO CROCODILE WRESTLE,"

There is also a book modelled after jockey Eddie Arcaro's book, "I RIDE TO WIN." It's written by jockey Con Artist and its title "I RIDE TO LOSE."

Its chapter headings include "HOW TO PULL A HORSE," "FAVORITES I HAVE GOTTEN BEAT ON," "HOW TO SIGNAL YOUR BOOKIE IN THE POST PARADE," "HOW TO STEER HORSES IN TO TROUBLE," "HOW TO ARRANGE A BETTING COUP," "SHOPPING FOR A PRICE AND HOW TO GET IT" and "BOAT RACING ON DRY LAND" or "DO YOU REALLY NEED EVERY RIDER IN ON IT OR ARE FOUR ENOUGH?"

"SUNDAY'S HERO"

—This tells the fictionalized story of the regeneration of a football hero set down for betting on games he was in. The book's most moving scene comes when he tearfully promises the commissioner "if you reinstate me, you won't be sorry. Incidentally, neither will I." So the commissioner reinstates him and he says, "do you mind if I use your phone, Commissioner?" And the commissioner says, "go ahead" and the hero calls his bookie and says "it's O.K., Joe. Same deal as two years ago."

"SILVER BOY"

—The story of a fighter whose mother wants him to be a violinist. So he sneaks out at night and fights, and he's up for a shot at the championship when his mother finds out and says "Low-life. For this, I scrimped and saved. So you could break your hands fighting with a bunch of loafers." And he says "But, Ma, my hands are all right. Look. But she makes him go back to Carnegie Hall and give up fighting and the night of the big concert his accompanist accidentally slams the lid of the piano down on his hand and all his fingers are broken. Now he not only can't play the violin, he can't even fight. So he's working in a liquor store.

By the way, you can't get any of these through the book-of-the-month club.

exhibition game in Montreal Jan. 5. Included is Regina scoring sensation Fran Huck.

Andrena Silano, 26, of Sardinia, won the Italian featherweight boxing championship by out-pointing defender Alberto Serli in a 12-round bout.

Gino Capelletti, the American Football League's leading scorer, has been named the AFL's most valuable player by an Associated Press panel.

BILL SKOWBON became the first player to sign a 1985 Chicago White Sox contract.

The former New York Yankee first baseman batted .283 for the White Sox last season after being traded by the Washington Senators. He received a salary boost, general manager Ed Short said.

Spencer Harris, owner and general manager of the Pacific Coast Baseball League Spokane Indians died at Spokane.

Pittsburgh Steelers have received a signed contract from Ray Jefferson, Utah's flashy pass-catching end.

NEIL ARMSTRONG, head coach of the Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, says efforts will be made to include more Canadians at the Edmonton training camp in 1985. Ten new American imports are also slated to attend.

Former sportscaster and pro football figure Harry Wamser settled a $280,000 claim to 1,120 shares of Detroit Lions stock, formerly held by his father-in-law, for $100,000.

Ontario Imports B.C.'s Kokanee

MAPLE, Ont. (CP) — A $1,000,000-a-year fishing operation may result from a fish-planting program being started by the Ontario department of lands and forests.

Officials of the department's southern research station at Maple, 20 miles north of Toronto, said the fish being transplanted from British Columbia and parts of the Western United States is known variously as the kokanee, kickaniny, silverfish or redfish.

BREAD, BUTTER

Frank Mahar, who came to the Ontario department after 12 years with the B.C. fish and game branch, described the kokanee as the bread and butter of the B.C. tourist fishing resorts.

Officials said the kokanee program will take four years and is expected to cost between $30,000 and $40,000. With annual

E.P.'s 'Little Runt' Performer of '64

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

A classy little three-year-old racehorse who rivalled his millionaire owner in earnings over 12 months is Canada's outstanding individual sports performer of 1964.

Northern Dancer, a runt of 15.2 hands as a yearling, returned to pasture last month after earning a Canadian record of $380,647 in purses for owner E. P. Taylor, the sire of Windfields Farm in Toronto.

Only the income - tax people know industrialist - sportsman Taylor's annual earnings, and they aren't saying.

Northern Dancer is the first animal elected to any award in the 30-year history of the Canadian Press year-end sports poll.

But who could overlook this fantastic son of Nearctic - Nalima during an all-too-brief career on North American tracks?

That's what the 18 voters - Canadian sports editors and sportscasters - thought and they not only put him in the No. 1 position in the individual category but said he provided the Canadian sports thrill of the year.

The voters were asked to name the individual sports performer and give a reason. The majority simply jotted down the Dancer's name and asked why they should list his track accomplishments. They were far too numerous.

And, indeed they were because this horse - not wanted at the asking price of $25,000 as a yearling because he was too small to stand the rigors of the racing business - did things no other Canadian-bred had done.

Beast Over Man?

In the individual category, some gave their votes to track stars Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., and Harry Jerome of Vancouver; hockey players Jean Beliveau and Charlie Hodge of Montreal Canadiens; Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks and Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings; football players Tom Brown of British Columbia Lions and Tommy Grant of Hamilton Tiger-Cats; boxer George Chuvalo of Toronto; jockey Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B.; bronco-buster Marty Wood of Bowness, Alta.; and Doug Rogers of Vancouver, Olympic judo silver medalist.

Among them, they received only 27 of the 148 votes.

INCONCEIVABLE: One Crothers booster, Russ Taylor of CFCF Montreal, said he felt it was "inconceivable that a beast Northern Dancer should even be considered in any category but horse racing."

The balloting was much the same for the sports thrill of the year.

Others mentioned here included: B.C. Lions' 34-24 Grey Cup football victory over the favored Hamilton Tiger-Cats; Canada's gold medal in four-man bobsled at the winter Olympics in Austria, a feat all the more impressive because there isn't a run in Canada on ice to practise; and the pair-oars gold medal at the summer Olympics in Tokyo won by Roger Jackson of Toronto and George Hungerford of Vancouver, a pair not considered strong enough to crack the Vancouver Rowing Club.

University of British Columbia eight.

He cleaned up practically everything in his class in Canada and the United States, became the first Canadian-bred to win the Kentucky Derby, added the Preakness Stakes and then missed out in the final jewel of the Triple Crown, the tough, rugged Belmont Stakes over 1 1/2 miles.

He gave Canadian sports fans enough thrills to last a few years.

The Dancer had a fantastic two-year campaign of 11 victories, two seconds and two thirds in 18 starts. Then he bowed a tendon in his left foreleg while training on an off-track at Belmont. This is the type of injury that spells finish to a career.

RETIRED NOV. 6

Taylor officially retired him to stud Nov. 6 after turning down an offer from American interest of $1,500,000. He wanted to keep him in Canada and it is almost a certainty the Dancer will return at least another million dollars while standing at stud.

His fee is $10,000, his 1965 book is full and he'll service between 25 and 30 mares next year alone.

SLOW STARTER

He wasn't any great shuck as a two-year-old, but then there rarely are world-leaders in this frisky age bracket. But, as a three-year-old, he really started to go. He won the Flamingo Stakes, the Florida Derby, the Blue Grass Stakes, the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, the Queen's plate.

And came his injury. He beat the favorite, Hill Rise, in both the Derby and Preakness and everything came tumbling down when he finished third behind Quadrangle and Roman Brother in the Belmont.

Others received votes in the individual category and thrill of the year but the Dancer took both categories in a breeze.

Canada Vs. Russia Last-Day Clash

TAMPERE (CP) — Canada meets Russia on the final day of the 1965 world hockey championships Sunday, March 14, the organizers disclosed Tuesday.

The championships will be held in this Finnish industrial city March 14 in a newly built 10,000-seat indoor stadium.

The Russians are the defending world champions as well as Olympic champions. Russia won the world title in 1963 at Stockholm by a single goal average over Sweden. Canada's Trill Smoke Eaters finished third.

SEVEN STRAIGHT

Canada's national team could do no better than fourth in the winter Olympics at Innsbruck as the Russians won seven straight games in the championship round-robin to take the gold medal.

Only pool A matches will be played here at Tampere. Already qualified for pool A are Russia, Canada, the United States, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Finland and Sweden.

The pool A draw:

March 8—Canada vs. Finland; Russia vs. West Germany or Switzerland or Norway; Sweden vs. East Germany; March 9—Canada vs. West Germany or Switzerland or Norway; Czechoslovakia vs. United States; March 10—Russia vs. East Germany; Sweden vs. Finland; March 11—Czechoslovakia vs. West Germany or Switzerland or Norway; Canada vs. United States; March 12—East Germany vs. United States; Finland vs. West Germany or Switzerland or Norway; March 13—Canada vs. Sweden; Czechoslovakia vs. Russia; Finland vs. East Germany; March 14—Canada vs. Russia; Sweden vs. Czechoslovakia; United States vs. West Germany or Switzerland or Norway.

The speedy young Chelsea team, only one point behind Leeds and Manchester United, clash with Blackpool, ninth from the bottom of the division and it, too, will be hopeful of a maximum-point holiday.

Clubs at home next Saturday meet the same opponents away on Monday, Dec. 28.

Manchester United, now without the goal-scoring genius of Denis Law because the Scottish international has been suspended for 28 days, lead the first division only on goal average from Leeds.

TOUGH OUTING

They are away to Sheffield United on Saturday, and despite their good record at Bramall Lane—they have not lost there in the last three visits—they will be fortunate to bring away a point this time. Before the Old Trafford crowd three days later Matt Busby's team will be fighting to preserve a proud record of only one home defeat this season.

IS SURPRISE CLUB

Leeds, last season's second division champions, is the surprise success of the top league this year. With Scot Bobby Collins their guiding inspiration, it faces as tough a Christmas task as Manchester United, with Blackburn Rovers as its opponent. But Leeds is on the crest of a wave at the moment, and could take four points from the two games.

Mounties Given Green Light Seattle Agreement Now Set

SEATTLE (CP)—A deal was consummated here Tuesday which assured Vancouver of a franchise in the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

Los Angeles Angels and the Rainier Brewing Company agreed on terms for a one-year lease of Sicks' Seattle Stadium, insuring continuation of PCL in Seattle.

The agreement also assured Vancouver of a franchise. Vancouver had been promised a place in the 12-team circuit if Seattle continued as a league member.

The Angels, who had a working agreement last year with the Coast League's Hawaiian member, took over the Seattle franchise when Boston Red Sox decided to move their triple-A farm operation to Toronto. The Washington Senators have assumed a working agreement with Hawaii.

Boston's American League team bought the Seattle Rainiers from the late Emil Sisk, head of the brewing company, and operated the team here four years.

Angels' representatives and Alan Ferguson, brewery company president, reached a deadlock on rental terms last week and set Tuesday as a deadline for a decision. Terms of the lease were reported as $17,500.

Ferguson said the brewery decided to delay plans for alternate uses of the property so the Angels would have time to "seek a new facility for the 1966 season."

Meanwhile, the Vancouver club—the Mounties—continued to build a team for the 1965 season.

Latest players assigned include local boy Wayne Norton and outfielder George Alusik, who has been with the parent Kansas City Athletics for two seasons.

Also signed were youngsters Ramon Montoya, an outfielder, and pitcher Don Yingling.

The Mounties now have acquired 16 players, including eight pitchers, a catcher and seven outfielders. Among them is Toronto outfielder Bobby Del Greco.

General manager Lew Matlin said the naming of the field manager is imminent and that he expects half a dozen infielders will be assigned to Vancouver before the end of the year.

Contract for Loser

$100,000 Christmas Present

HAMILTON (UPI) — Ralph Sazio, Hamilton Tiger-Cat coach, must be wondering what would have happened if his team had won the Grey Cup instead of losing to the British Columbia Lions, 34-24.

Jake Gaudaur, Ticat president and general manager, announced Tuesday that Sazio had signed a new five-year contract at over $100,000.

Sazio, a New Jersey native, had one year left on a three-year pact.

When asked if the new pact contained a raise, Sazio beamed "definitely."

"I'm very pleased. This is a nice Christmas present," he commented.

Sazio's two assistant coaches, Kelly Mote and Joe Restic, still have one year left on their contracts and are expected to be back next year.

Sazio has been with Hamilton for 13 years as a player and a coach. He was the number one assistant to Jim Trimble from 1956 until 1962.

He became head coach in 1963 when Trimble moved to the Montreal Alouettes and the Tiger-Cats won the Grey Cup that year by downing the Lions 21-10.

Bones Heads Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Hugh (Bones) Taylor, former pass receiver for Washington Redskins, was named head football coach for Houston Oilers Tuesday.

Taylor, 41, replaces Sammy Baugh, a former Washington teammate who resigned unexpectedly Friday while saying he wanted to spend more time on his West Texas ranch.

Taylor was an assistant under Baugh this season as the Oilers had their poorest 4-10 season in history.

K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr., Oilers president and owner announced the selection at a press conference.

Scouting Job

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers have named Bert Olinstead, former National Hockey League star, director of player personnel.

Olinstead, who starred for 13 seasons with Chicago, Montreal and Toronto, will concentrate on player development and scouting throughout Canada.

Canadian Coach:

Aussies Slip in Swimming Ratings

VANCOUVER (CP)—Howard Firby, the Alabama-born coach who took Canada's swimmers to the 1961 Olympic games, says Australia is slipping as a swimming power.

In an interview, Firby, who fought paralytic polio in a Regina hospital to become a top coach, said he believes Canada will win one-quarter of the gold medals available to swimmers at the 1966 British Empire Games in Jamaica.

He said Canada has passed

Britain in swimming and is rapidly catching up with Australia.

"I believe the Aussies to be on the wane," he said.

"But they may be able to come up with new blood by 1966."

Firby said Canada has the material to become a world swimming power but "we're too parochial in our thinking."

"Canadians want instant success and it won't come."

Canada has "some fine young swimmers and they are working hard, but we need many more up and coming youngsters."

Many Canadians were too content on building strength within their own swimming clubs to care about branching into international competition.

He picks Vancouver's Jane Hughes and Ron Jacks, Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., and Dan Sherry of Toronto to shine for Canada in the 1966 games.

Elaine Tanner, 13, of Vancouver, four-time provincial high school champion, is coming up and Firby also pointed to Don Duncey of the Dolphins Club in Vancouver as "another potential international."

A step in the right direction, Firby said, is the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association plan to send a team of about 20 to Europe next summer. Details are still tentative but proposed are trips to Spain, Portugal, France, Italy, Germany, The Netherlands and Britain.

Soccer Star Leaves U.K.

LONDON (CP)—One of Britain's star amateur soccer players, 26-year-old Mike Candy, has shocked his club by deciding to move to Canada next February.

Candy, a right-winger with the Kingstonian Club, has played 11 times for England in international amateur matches. A heating engineer by profession, he has accepted a business post with a firm of consulting engineers in Niagara Falls, Ont.

Bradford Wins

BRADFORD, England (Reuters) — Bradford beat Chesterfield 1-0 in an English League, fourth division soccer match here Tuesday night. The match had been postponed from Dec. 19.

Holiday Soccer Vital to All

LONDON (Reuters) — The Christmas holiday games in English League soccer have traditionally provided a feast of unexpected results, and this year's double-header games may well see new leaders at the top of the first and second divisions.

Clubs at home next Saturday meet the same opponents away on Monday, Dec. 28.

Manchester United, now without the goal-scoring genius of Denis Law because the Scottish international has been suspended for 28 days, lead the first division only on goal average from Leeds.

TOUGH OUTING

They are away to Sheffield United on Saturday, and despite their good record at Bramall Lane—they have not lost there in the last three visits—they will be fortunate to bring away a point this time. Before the Old Trafford crowd three days later Matt Busby's team will be fighting to preserve a proud record of only one home defeat this season.

IS SURPRISE CLUB

Leeds, last season's second division champions, is the surprise success of the top league this year. With Scot Bobby Collins their guiding inspiration, it faces as tough a Christmas task as Manchester United, with Blackburn Rovers as its opponent. But Leeds is on the crest of a wave at the moment, and could take four points from the two games.

'Saving World Starts at Home'

By IAN ARROL

Back in Victoria from a trip around the world, Bishop Remi de Roo sees world salvation as a matter to be started at home by each individual.

"The future of the world really depends on the little man, because the progress of humanity as a whole depends on the sum total of humanity," said the bishop who returned Monday night from conferences in India and of the Vatican Council in Rome.

"There must be conversion of the individual heart.

"Let each individual start loving his fellow man. That is what Pope John did, person to person.

"Unity of faith may never be achieved—the human race may never be capable of achieving that for which Christ prayed.

"All we can do is try to respond to Christ's mind."

UNITY ACHIEVED

The bishop said that in one field a great deal of unity has been achieved.

There was relatively little difference of opinion left on basic issues between Catholic and Protestant scholars concerning biblical interpretations.

"The idea of a common Bible is making real headway."

Stranded Nine Rescued

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nine men stranded without food on Kwatna, Inlet, 300 miles northwest of here, were airlifted to Port Hardy by an RCAF Search and Rescue helicopter Tuesday.

The RCAF said all nine were employees of a Vancouver construction company and had been working on a company project on the isolated inlet.

The air force believed only two men were stranded but the rescue crew found nine. All were in good condition.

The Roman Catholic leader was asked his impression of the new United Church Sunday school curriculum, which has been criticized recently in Victoria for referring to the first eleven chapters of the Bible as myths.

"Although I have not read the new curriculum myself, I am told by those whose opinion I respect that genuine scholarship has gone into the publications.

"The word myth does not mean nonsense. The word refers to a particular mode of expression used by ancient cultures.

SPIRITUAL MEANING

"These myths are stories responding to the popular imagination and serve to translate a spiritual meaning."

The 40-year-old bishop referred to an innovation in his own church.

On March 7 in Canada, at least one half the mass will be in English (or French, if that is the language of the parish).

Nine on Island Become Two

School Areas Merge Jan. 1

Nine school districts in northwestern Vancouver Island will be consolidated into two large units Jan. 1 in a provincial government move to keep pace with an unexpected population explosion.

The provincial cabinet Tuesday terminated the terms of office of all school trustees in the nine districts, some recently elected or re-elected but most appointed.

Two provincial officials were named official trustees with full school board powers.

One of the new districts will embrace the present Alert Bay and Quatsino school districts. The other will take in seven small, unattached districts along the west coast of the Island, including Zeballos and Gold River, site of a new pulp mill town planned by Tahsis Co.

Education Minister Peterson said the new northern district will be administered by R. F.

Lucas of Courtenay, now superintendent of schools for Alert Bay and Quatsino districts.

The minister said he regards the appointment of Mr. Lucas and J. A. Dion, new official trustee for the west coast district, as "temporary."

"They will continue in office only until such time as conditions permit the election of regular school boards," he said. Mr. Lucas would set up a plan for representation of northern communities on the new area-wide board and arrange for the first election of new trustees.

NEW SCHOOL SITE

But in the meantime the government appointee would pick the site of a new district secondary school, work out the district's 1965 budget and pick the new district's first secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Peterson said the present trustees have been asked "to continue in an advisory capacity and to submit their names to the electorate when the time comes for election of the new board."

"The official trustee will seek advice of the existing boards to make the transition as smooth as possible."

Mr. Dion, now official trustee at Metchik, has been given the job of planning a large new secondary school at Gold River designed to meet the needs of the proposed town of 5,000 and half a dozen other communities in the district.

"The Gold River school will have dormitory accommodation to house students from the outlying areas and a technical-vocational wing that will permit the teaching of our new educational program at the secondary school level," Mr. Peterson said.

Thetis, Kuper Islands

Hundreds of 'Santas' Aid Indian Children

Indian children on Thetis and Kuper Islands have found hundreds of Santa Clauses in Victoria, some of them on welfare.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fraser of 11050 Heather at Sidney started the fund Monday when they heard of the children's need and since then the Fraser phone hasn't stopped ringing.

Mrs. Fraser said Tuesday even people on welfare have phoned to ask where they can take the clothing for the children.

A doctor's wife, who declined to be named, but only contributed herself but collected from friends and now plans to find a covered van so the clothing and food can be collected.

Mrs. Fraser said adult clothing is being given and some people have asked about the need for medical supplies.

Others have suggested some organization might continue the work for the Indian children once Christmas is over.

"If we get more than one plane load... and we can't expect the man to keep flying over there... we have needy children on Vancouver Island," said Mrs. Fraser.

William Sylvester of the Victoria Flying Club has agreed to fly the supplies over free of charge.

Clothing and canned food can be left by donors at a number of service stations:

Shell Service at 326 Bay, and BA Service Stations at 1600 Fairfield, Fort and Pandora, Melrod and Calder, Esquima It and Granville, Speed and Douglas, Royal Oak on West Saanich Road and 7800 Douglas.

Reliable Transfer offered Tuesday to pick up donations from the gas stations and take them to Heaney's. That firm has agreed to take them out to the Patricia Bay airport to be flown to the islands.

Chatterton Reviews:

Canada Pension Plan

By TED GASKELL

A first-hand look at the proposed Canada Pension Plan was given here Tuesday by MP George Chatterton, a member of the special Joint Senate-Commons committee studying the plan.

He expressed his views to Kwantlen at noon and in the evening answered questions from an audience of 40 at a meeting sponsored by the Senior Citizens Advisory Committee.

Nearly two hours of questions brought forth the answers, including the following:

● Anyone earning more than $600 from 1966 is eligible providing he contributes, whether as a worker or self-employed.

● Workers pay a maximum of 1.8 per cent of their annual earnings up to $5,000, and the employer pays a similar amount. A self-employed man pays 3.6 per cent.

● Pension on retirement at 65, not before, is approximately 25 per cent of the average earnings, with a maximum pension of $104 a month.

● The pension can be drawn after 10 years but it is reduced if retirement age is reached before that.

● If age 65 is reached after one year of contribution, the pension is one-tenth of the allowable pension; if two years, two tenths, and so on up to 100 per cent.

● The Canada Pension Plan does not affect any other pension plan now in effect in Canada whether Old Age Security or private plans.

● In future, old age pensioners can take $51 a month at 65 years of age for life instead of waiting for $75 at age 70.

● Disability pensions are included at a flat rate of $25 plus 75 per cent of the pension the worker could expect if he had not been disabled, said Mr. Chatterton.

● Widows are to receive $25 flat rate plus 37.5 per cent of what the worker would have drawn if he had lived.

● No pension is available to a widow under 25 without dependents. A reduced rate pen-

Building Tilt Clears Hotel

CAIRO (CP) — Police evacuated more than 100 tourists from a hotel in downtown Cairo Tuesday after a 19-storey building nearing completion next door started tilting.

Under construction five years, it developed a growing list three months ago.

Wilson, harpoon head, Boulton

Museum Project Starting At Once

Work will begin immediately on conversion of the old courthouse at Bastion Square into a suitable building for marine display, officials of the B.C. Maritime Museum said Wednesday.

Commodore A. G. Boulton, chairman of the maritime museum committee, officially received the keys to the three-story building from Mayor R. B. Wilson at a short ceremony outside the building.

At the same time the Commodore received a mounted harpoon head from Jack Cantillon, a retired engineer who found the ancient head in his basement and mounted it.

While work will begin at once on the building, opening of the building hinges on the development and beautification of Bastion Square.

The chief buyer for the provincial government purchasing commission testified in County Court Tuesday that G. E. P. Jones was not in a position to influence the acceptance of bids.

Arthur William Charlton, 2963 Cedar Hill Cross Road, said that approximately 95 per cent of all government car purchases were made on "straight low bid."

RARE CASES

Most of the remainder were purchased on the basis of the lowest bid to meet specific tions, said Mr. Charlton. In the rare cases where officials of the government department concerned requested a higher-priced car the matter was turned over to the treasury board.

In these cases, Mr. Charlton testified, the purchasing commission would inform treasury officials that it did not recommend acceptance of the higher bid, and the matter was usually resolved on the basis of the lowest acceptable bid.

REPEATED TESTIMONY

Mr. Charlton repeated his testimony given at the preliminary hearing when he referred to the chairman as the "watchdog" of the purchasing commission, "rubber-stamping" recommendations of department officials and the chief buyer.

"I take it then," said defence counsel Hugh McGivern, QC, "that the accused was not in a good position to favor any particular bidder?"

LETTER PRODUCED

"I don't see how he could," replied the witness.

Assistant crown prosecutor Dermot Owen Flood produced a letter from Mr. Charlton to George Hankinson, president of the now defunct Pacific Chrysler Products Ltd., dated Jan. 23, 1964.

In it the chief buyer said it was "good to know" that Mr. Hankinson had been appointed direct representative to the purchasing commission on behalf of Chrysler Corporation of Canada.

ON OWN INITIATIVE

Mr. Charlton testified that he had signed the letter for the chairman, as was customary on all commission business, but said he sent it on his own initiative without consulting Mr. Jones.

He said all major automobile manufacturers had similar direct representatives through which the commission handled queries.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Mr. Charlton said he wrote the letter as a public relations gesture after Mr. Hankinson had helped the government out of a "sticky situation" when it needed a replacement vehicle in a hurry for a government department in Prince George.

The witness testified that Mr. Hankinson, as Chrysler's direct representative, was able to divert to Prince George a car from a shipment enroute from the factory to B.C.

SERVICE GOOD

"Do you and did you feel that Mr. Hankinson gave good service to your department?" asked Mr. McGivern.

"Yes, I do," said Mr. Charlton.

The witness testified he never attempted to interfere with bids.

WOULDN'T INTERFERE

"I would certainly not try to monkey around or change things or my job would be gone tomorrow," said Mr. Charlton.

Mr. Jones, suspended as chairman of the purchasing commission Oct. 2, is charged with receiving benefits on two cars purchased for his own use from Mr. Hankinson's company.

He is accused of allowing the dealer to withhold payment of $1,577 on the first, a 1963 sedan, and then getting a 1964 convertible in a straight trade for the 1963 sedan.

Sgt. Ernest Bonderud and Cpl. Reginald Blackmore testified that Mr. Jones declined to discuss his personal car deals when they went to interview him in connection with the case.

WOULD NOT TALK

The RCMP investigators said the accused would not talk about personal business until he had received a letter from the deputy attorney-general Dr. Gilbert Kennedy.

However, they said Mr. Jones co-operated fully when asked to produce purchasing commission records.

EXPECTED LETTER

Archie Plummer, a former Vancouver police inspector who is now the attorney-general's departmental inspector, said the accused expected a letter from Dr. Kennedy saying that he was satisfied with the operation of the purchasing commission.

The crown completed its case by the time court was adjourned Tuesday and the defence will open before Judge M. L. Tyndall-Drake at 11 a.m. today.

Dealers Have Worst Christmas

By BOB DONAHUE

The Christmas tree business is a double-your-money-or-quit proposition, say local dealers.

And there is every indication it will be quits in the future as Greater Victoria dealers this year recorded their lowest profits yet.

Several expect to lose money. Poor quality trees, purchased sight-unseen, have cut into profits this year more than any other.

Discounters have also entered the local market and because of them some dealers expect to be left with trees on their hands.

One reason for the poor quality trees this year was an extremely wet spring which caused the trees to grow high and spindly instead of bushy.

Dealers agreed the season all but ended at the weekend and any late Christmas tree shoppers will be stuck with poor quality trees.

"Everybody asks for a tree six feet tall and bushy," said one dealer. "They seldom get them."

"The Christmas tree business is a relative thing. Some trees that I wouldn't even give away, people are glad to pay $3 for. Others of good quality are left unsold."

Trees cost a dealer between 25 cents and $1, depending on their quality and the wholesaler they buy from. One up-

Island tree farm that specializes in raising Christmas trees sells trees to dealers at $1 each.

Most of these trees sell for about $3 retail.

Few Middleweights in Freezers

People wanting Christmas turkeys between 16 and 20 pounds in weight will be lucky to get them.

Supermarkets report no shortage of birds, except in that weight range, and for a good reason.

Hens are allowed to reach 16 pounds dressed weight before being killed, but fowls aren't killed until they can produce 20 pounds for the stores.

Summer Birds May Die

Skylark Watchers Worried by Snow

Vancouver Island is the only place in North America where skylarks may be seen, but bird-watchers are worried that if the heavy snows continue their mortality rate will be heavy.

The watchers will be out counting beaks from dawn to dusk on Sunday.

"This snow means that some of our summer birds such as warblers and pipits might not survive. It is not the cold that will get them but the fact that the snow covers up their food," said David Stirling, one of the enthusiastic "birders."

Victoria watchers will cover the area from Witty's Lagoon to Cordova Bay and from Island View Beach to Clover Point—one of the best areas on the continent for a diversity of wintering species.

Last December 50,000 birds of 27 species were counted, a record for all of Canada.

At the end of the day counts will be tabulated and entered on official National Audubon Society forms.

Doctor's Bag Found In Beacon Hill Park

A doctor's bag stolen from a car in the parking lot at St. Joseph's Hospital Dec. 3 was located Tuesday in Beacon Hill Park.

Owner of the bag, Dr. D. R. Carlow, 1175 Cook, said 12 morphine tablets were missing. The equipment and bag were valued at $200.

The bag was found in the bushes of the park by a workman.

At the time of the theft the vent window in the doctor's car had been forced.

Under BNA Act Amendment

Province Could Control B.C. Telephone

B.C. Telephone Company could be brought under provincial control by the new formula for amending the British North America Act, Attorney General Bonner said Tuesday.

The new formula would give B.C. the legal opportunity to regulate public utilities now operating in the province under federal charter, the attorney-general explained.

It would mean a provincial body such as the Public Utilities Commission would be responsible for setting rates.

"Rate-making would be at a more local level than it now is," Mr. Bonner said.

Rate structures are now designed by the board of transport commissioners. The new amending formula might bring some television cable companies as well as B.C. Telephone under provincial control.

It requires federal government legislation and concurrence by at least four provinces, Mr. Bonner said.

B.C. and Nova Scotia led the battle for inclusion of the clause during recent talks among provincial attorneys-general that led to agreement on the amending formula.

which is expected to come into force next year.

The attorney-general said the idea of bringing the firms under provincial control has been studied but was found "not a legal possibility in that at present the federal government couldn't delegate the power even if it wished to."

"Such a request by us would have been foredoomed at the outset."

Mr. Bonner pointed out that the new amending formula "will provide a degree of flexibility which does not now exist."

"At least this type of thing becomes a legal possibility, where at present it is not."

Bringing B.C. Telephone under provincial control has no connection with government take-over of the company, Mr. Bonner added.

Light Rain Washes Out Whiteness

Possibility that Victoria will have a white Christmas seemed more remote Tuesday as a light rainfall slowly turned snowfall on the ground to slush.

But at higher altitudes in the hills on the outskirts of Greater Victoria falling snow continued to build up faster than the old snow melted.

Road crews were busy pushing snow and slush off the roads and rural residents were kept busy clearing their paths and driveways.

Weatherman William Mackie said he could see no change in sight for the next few days. Temperatures will remain cool—between 32 and 40 degrees—and there will probably be some more wet snow, or a mixture of rain and snow.

OUT OF CONTROL

One of the patrol wagons used by city police to take prisoners to court every day was a victim of slippery streets early Tuesday.

The wagon, driven by Const. Ab Wells, took to the shoulder of Interurban Road near Dummeresq to avoid an oncoming car out of control, said police.

Two prisoners and guard Const. Barry English were tossed across the van when it skidded into the ditch. There were no injuries.

MISSED CURVE

At about the same time a car driven by Glen C. Beck, 2481 Eastdowne, missed a snowy curve on Foul Bay Road south of Gonzales.

It left the road and struck a power pole. Damage to the car was described as heavy but the driver escaped with minor cuts and bruises. He was treated and released by St. Joseph's Hospital emergency staff.

A tree which fell across a power line on the Patricia Bay Highway near Beaver Lake Road cut off power temporarily to a large part of Saanich and knocked out transmissions from radio stations CKDA and CJVI, about 8 a.m. Tuesday.

There was 10 inches of snow on the Malahat and three to four inches in Central Saanich.

In the high land above Brentwood there was 13 inches of snow on the ground Tuesday and fresh snow was falling. Side roads in that area were "very bad and nearly choked with snow," one resident reported.

SNOW FALLING

Meanwhile, residents on the Lower Mainland snuggled down Tuesday night as snow continued to fall with no immediate letup in sight.

In the Vancouver area residents were growing accustomed to snow-clogged streets and were preparing to celebrate a rare white Christmas, the first since 1951 and the fifth on record.

All airline flights to the Interior were cancelled Monday and most Tuesday flights were delayed. Municipal officials throughout the Lower Mainland expressed alarm at the spiraling costs of snow removal.

Bingo Cancelled

Poor weather has prompted cancellation of the social bingo planned for today in the OAP Hall, 1600 Government, by the Victoria No. 1 Old Age Pensioners Organization.

Mains Rejected

Saanich Curbing Sprawl

By GARY OAKES

Saanich council has taken another step to curb scattered small-lot development in the sprawling municipality.

On the recommendation of planner Tom Loney council rejected an application for the installation of water mains on Bowfield Place and Gillie Road. Mr. Loney hopes council will adopt a similar policy in dealing with local improvement requests in scattered areas "unless an individual case has mitigating circumstances."

DISCOURAGE

In a report to council the planner outlined the need for discouraging the installation of services for scattered development because of the high cost of providing too many miles of services for too few people.

"Once this type of development is initiated," Mr. Loney wrote, "it almost without exception leads to additional demands for street lights, sidewalks, bus service, increased police and fire protection, schools, parks and the whole range of urban services."

War Toy Crisis

Victoria merchants are waging a quiet, desperate campaign over war toys—business was never so good.

The supply has fallen far short of the demand and this week in a last-ditch stand merchants have been trying to buy from each other to appease eager customers.

The merchants' plight has apparently reached a critical stage for one toy—Johnny Seven, the one-man army (seven different kinds of death combined into a composite gun).

JOHNNY SEVEN

One merchant, whose Johnny Sevens were sold out three days ago, said Tuesday his telephone has been ringing almost constantly with inquiries from either stores.

Roy Parrell, who operates a hardware store in the Hillside Shopping Centre, said he had at least 20 inquiries Tuesday. "One of them was from a major department store and others were just voices which obviously were brought to a store," he said.

Earlier this month war toys were condemned by the Voice of Women and since then a group has been formed in Victoria which says it will work for the promotion of "educational" toys for children rather than war toys.

Firemen Douse Two Blazes

City firemen answered two calls Tuesday and doused minor fires without incident.

The first was a mattress fire at 1022 Princess, followed 15 minutes later by a chimney blaze at 544-Simcoe.

There were no injuries at either fire.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do about a boy friend whose chief interest in life is food? Sidney is not a teen-ager. He is 24 years old and plenty overweight, I might add.

Sidney never holds my hand in a movie because he is too busy shovelling popcorn into his mouth. At football games, while other couples hold hands, Sidney must have his hands free—for the hot dogs and potato chips. Even when he drives the car one hand is in a bag of jelly beans.

The other evening while we were watching TV Sidney was munching on ice-cream nuts till I thought I'd lose my mind. When I saw him to the door he said, "I'd kiss you goodnight, dear, but I can't seem to get rid of this salt-water taffy."

I could compete with another female, Ann, but how does one compete with food? Help, Please—TENA.

Dear TENA: Sidney sounds like a nervous eater. And he could eat himself into an early grave unless he resolves the problems that are driving him to food.

A 24-year-old man who is so busy with salt-water taffy that he can't kiss his girl goodnight needs professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: Some people I work with didn't like the advice you gave the stepmother who despised her husband's 16-year-old daughter.

When the stepmother wrote, "My husband is on MY side," knew what the poor kid was up against. You said the stepdaugh-

IODE Party Buffet Style

The Fifth Street home of Mrs. W. R. Roskelley was the setting for the Christmas party of Florence Nightingale Chapter of IODE. Buffet luncheon was served following the meeting.

Mrs. A. Gornell was presented with her 25-year pin by Mrs. H. Minzies, regent.

Sum of $100 was donated to the Returned Children's Home on Elford Street for educational purposes. The chapter also donated $10 to Saanich Benevolent Fund for a needy family.

Mrs. K. Miles was named chairman of nominating committee. Assisting will be Mrs. G. C. Baker and Mrs. N. Walsh.

Next meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. Jan. 11 at the home of Mrs. N. Turner, 54 Howe Street.

Our Man In The Kitchen

HYMAN GOLDBERG

Tomorrow is Christmas Eve, and oh, how jolly it will be in all the offices across the land where for one day in the year discipline is relaxed and everyone has a perfectly marvelous time at the annual party! And many of us will have three whole, entire days in which to remember what happened at the party! Three whole, entire days in which to be remorseful! Wonderful!

Which reminds us about the Fattening Festivities

Dear Susanna: Now that the festive season is upon us and hostesses will be enticing guests to eat all sorts of rich and fattening goodies, do you not think it would be thoughtful if our friends would remember those of us who, for one reason or another, must count the calories?

While our "thin brothers and sisters" are munching on chips and dip, bon bons, shortbreads, olives, sausage rolls and mixed nuts, it would be most appreciated by a great many more people than you would suspect, if small trays of such items as celery curls, carrot sticks and little bunches of grapes were included.—Calorie Counter.

For midnight supper how about a parsley casserole, some watercress supreme and sacharin pie?—SUSANNA.

office party we once went to, and where we observed the official office bore knocking off one blast after another, all the while playing the fool with every girl in the place, telling the boss what a cretin he was, and generally endearing himself to one and all. When he was halfway through his 14th paper-cup Martini, he slowly slid off the edge of the desk where he'd been sitting, and crumpled up on the floor. Everyone watched his collapse in a deep silence, which was broken when one of his colleagues said: "One thing you got to give good old Charlie credit for—he always knows when he's had enough."

We have a friend named Eric Hedlund whose father, many years ago, brought with him from Sweden the recipe for a wonderful Christmas drink which he serves all day to friends who call on him, called: GLOGG.

Our friend does this in a large chafing dish, in full view of his guests, and it is a pretty sight.

Festive Dance for Teens

A Christmas dance for teenagers of Victoria will be sponsored by the Demers Catholic Youth organization in the Club Sirocco this evening. All proceeds from this dance will be donated to the Community Chest of Greater Victoria.

Two bands popular among the younger element, the Pharaohs and the Regents, will play for dancing from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Dress is semi-formal.

Sponsorship of this dance is looked upon by the Demers.

POTTING

Always use clean new clay pots when replanting houseplants. If any old pots have turned white they should be discarded. The white deposit that won't wash off is a build-up of unused fertilizer and planting a plant in such a pot is like putting it in a salty bath.

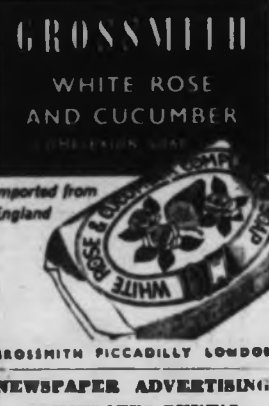

group, which was named after the Most Reverend M. Demers, first Bishop of Victoria, as an opportunity for young people to do something constructive for the community and are looking for full support from the city's "late teens."

Members of the committee making arrangements for the dance are Keith Guelpa, chairman, Bob King, Bob Turner, Fred Herist, Dave Kissinger, Salanger Schiller, Jim Lynch, Don Speed, Elsa Gerard, Chris Hanley, Linda Kelley, Will Bruch and Raymond May.

International Politics to Affect Queen Elizabeth's Visits in 1965

LONDON (CP)—The uncertain world of international politics, which until recently hardly touched the stately round of royal activities, will affect two of the Queen's major engagements in 1965.

One of them, the long-expected state visit to West Germany in May, is likely to provoke as much discussion—even controversy, for different reasons—as the Queen's terse trip to Quebec last October.

It will be the first state visit of a British sovereign to Germany since Edward VII visited his nephew Kaiser Wilhelm II in 1909.

In the 50 years since the outbreak of the First World War, Anglo-German relations have veered from open hostility to a lingering suspicion that occasionally still erupts in sections of the British press and public opinion. The 1965 tour will probably be seen as a momentous watershed: the final recognition, 20 years to the month after the Nazi surrender, that the two countries have buried the past.

But there will be controversy. The key to it is Berlin.

Germans apparently hope and expect the Queen to visit West Berlin, their "front-line" half-city set like an island in the hostile sea of Communist East Germany. There are thorny diplomatic hazards here and the British foreign office says no arrangements will be announced until just before the royal tour starts May 18, in case of any fresh crisis in the divided city.

DELICATE PROBLEM

The East Germans and the Soviet Union might interpret a visit by the Queen as implying Britain recognizes West Berlin as part of the Federal Republic of Germany. Britain's attitude is that the city is a four-power responsibility.

A possible way around this objection would be to announce the Queen was visiting British troops in West Berlin.

There is also the question of her safety flying through the air corridors, which the Communists have repeatedly stated must be used only for supplying Western troops in the city. However, they have permitted normal commercial traffic provided the planes touch down first at West German airports.

The trip is expected to last a week or 10 days. Plans for it were laid as far back as 1958, when West German President Theodor Heuss came to London on a state visit. It is customary for the Queen to pay a return call on a visiting head of state.

In 1965 she has two other visits of this nature scheduled—to Ethiopia and Sudan. The Sudanese trip has also been affected by political developments; in this case, the ousting in November of President Ibrahim Aboud, who publicly invited the Queen to his country on his state visit to London last May. His military regime has been replaced by a civilian government containing several Communists. There has also been recent Negro-Arab fighting in the country.

The upset in Africa's largest country left arrangements for the four-day royal visit in February "all up in the air," a foreign office spokesman said. British diplomats are waiting to see whether the invitation still stands with the new regime.

Originally the trip was scheduled to follow the Feb. 1-3 visit to Ethiopia—also technically a "return call," though Emperor Haile Selassie last visited London in 1954.

THE FIRST TIME

It will be the first time the Queen has travelled in north-east Africa, though she has visited west coast Commonwealth countries: Ethiopia, a mountainous, remote kingdom still held in a feudal trance, boasts a monarchy three times older than Britain's 1,000-year line. Haile Selassie, a tough little bearded warrior of 73, claims direct descent from biblical Queen of Sheba.

The Duke of Edinburgh will accompany the Queen on all her foreign tours in 1965.

Miss Canada Home For the Holidays

Miss Canada of 1965, Sidney's when announcing this fact you could tell it had been a happy choice.

Linda flew from Toronto by CPA and the flight was smooth and on time regardless of wintry weather.

Linda is home to spend the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Douma of Sidney, her two sisters, Kathie, a nurse in training at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, young five-year-old Laurel, and brother Reg.

Little Laurel is pretty impressed with her sister's new wardrobe and according to Linda, she doesn't know whether Laurel likes her furs better than anything else. Fluffy, soft furs are her weakness right now.

One of the first official jobs for Linda was accompanying the CBC Concert Party to Cyprus where they played for the Canadian troops. She only returned to Toronto last Sunday.

Ken Dalziel, producer of the show; Gordy Tapp, better known as Uncle Clem on the Hoedown show; the Rhythm Pals and 20 other performers were all along on the trip.

The show played mostly in the Nicola and Kyrrenia areas and Linda thought the country beautiful, and weather, too.

Her own part in the show was singing Jingle Bell Rock. Judging by the way she laughed

Child-Killer Caught Near Murder Scene

LONDON (UPI) — A gaunt, gypsy psychopath who escaped from prison where he was serving a life sentence for child killing, was recaptured Tuesday near the scene where he slew two children in Britain's "babes in the wood" murder case.

Frederick Smith, 38, was recaptured by police in Guildford where he was living in 1947 when he bludgeoned seven-year-old Ellen Gaff to death in a forest. The body of her nine-year-old brother Leslie was found along-side, shot in the back.

Smith's escape Monday from a London prison threw a scare into southern England and children were warned off the streets.

Police had sought him through the time-worn streets of Christmas-time London and the rural byways of England he knew as a gypsy wanderer.

A policeman spotted Smith walking along a road, still wearing his gray prison uniform. He was cold and hungry and had no coat or hat. He gave up without a struggle.

Smith, who has a history of psychiatric trouble, escaped from a working party at London's Wormwood Scrubs prison by vaulting a wall with a crude ladder made from two hoes and a piece of bent iron.

— President Johnson Tuesday approved development of a new military transport plane — the biggest in the world — that will be capable of taking at jet speed between 500 and 700 troops to any corner of the map.

Defence Secretary McNamara announced after a budget meeting with Mr. Johnson that the president had given a go-ahead to the $750,000,000 development program. There would be an additional $1,000,000,000 cost if a contemplated total of 50 of the planes were built for air force use sometime after mid-1968.

McNamara said that while his interest in the craft is purely military, there obviously are implications of a civilian commercial potential.

HUGE PAYLOAD

He said the plane would have gross takeoff weight of 725,000

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

CBS has been shuffling programs frantically in the wake of the first post-election ratings, which cut its audience by 11 per cent. Now the word is that the big network has taken a couple of extra steps in its hopes for a comeback to the top.

First, CBS is apparently going to run old movies in prime evening hours for the first time. Old movies are cheaper than TV series, and both NBC and ABC are pulling good ratings with evening movies. ABC, by the way, has denied plans for a second weekly film, which could be a guarantee the move will be made.

Second, CBS has dropped national ads from CBS Reports, recently moved to Mondays. This means Reports will no longer depress CBS ratings since Nielsen figures only cover nationally-competitive programs.

Lisa Howard, the afternoon newscaster dropped by ABC during the election campaign, is suing the network for $100,000 and demanding her five-minute broadcast back. She says she was dismissed for supporting New York Republican Senator Kenneth Keating, who later lost to Bobby Kennedy, and claims such support was her constitutional right.

Wednesday's Highlights

Organist Plans Recital

Victoria organist David Palmer will present a recital in St. Andrew's Cathedral at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 30.

Mr. Palmer, who has been studying at the University of Michigan under the distinguished teacher Marilyn Mason, will play classical and contemporary music.

The St. Andrew's organ was recently modernized, mechanically and tonally, by Victoria organ builder Hugo Spilker.

The recital is sponsored by the Victoria Chapter of the Royal Canadian College of Organists.

Students of Violence

Sticks Stones, Bring Down Governments

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A teen-age boy brandishing a stick or hurling stones is no fearsome sight.

Multiply him by thousands, abandon him and his brethren to unscrupulous and opportunistic leaders, and he can bring down governments.

Student mobs . . . student riots . . . student demonstrations . . . these are convenient catch-all terms. There are students and students, demonstrations and demonstrations.

In the wave of student violence in Asia, Africa and Latin America, the participants' ages ranged from pre-teens to overripe maturity. In the mass they are not just kids on a rampage, but an explosive political force.

EUROPEAN CUSTOM
How many of the outbursts are spontaneous? How many are provoked by legitimate student leaders? What impels students to violence?

Stormy student participation in politics is an old European custom, transplanted as a heritage of colonial times to Asia, Africa and most of the western hemisphere.

The old world idea—strong in Latin America and prevalent in much of the rest of the world—is that the grounds of the university are sacrosanct, beyond government authority and are indeed practically autonomous.

The tradition is almost superstitiously respected in much of Latin America. Often superannuated "student leaders" are free on campuses to plot against government. The fever spreads from university to lower schools and even to pre-teen kids. Politics may mean nothing to them but rioting presents opportunities to let off steam against elders.

In the pre-nuclear age, when the world was not so compressed a package, the university was the training ground for future leaders through exposure to problems of political and social justice. The tradition persists, but today it is an explosive agent in a time of intense global contest. The student—member of an elite and a potential future leader—becomes a prime target of opportunists of right or left intent on power.

Since education is usually expensive, the students for the most part come from well-to-do families, and their politics often are largely a matter of rebellion against their elders.

In the intellectual violence around the world, there are several types of students involved.

One is "the perennial student." Often he is a Communist. Often he is in his 30s or older, but he styles himself "youth leader." For example, in Venezuela, several Communist "student leaders" are in their late 30s.

Then there is the captive student.

Expanding Farm

Moy Yun started his "farm" 21 years ago in tin buckets. Today his operation has expanded to involve 35 bathtubs—all in his Vancouver basement. His crop: 4,000 pounds of bean sprouts weekly, which take week to grow, must be nursed 24 hours daily. Sprouts are widely used in Chinese food industry.

Alberta Strikes It Rich

Oil Revenue Pours In As Firms Move North

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP)—Canada's petroleum industry moved boldly northward in 1964, a year that saw exploration proceed at an energetic pace. And there's promise of continued high development in 1965.

Most of the northern activity took place in Alberta. Together with more attractive Saskatchewan exploration regulations, it produced a generally buoyant atmosphere in the industry.

Key centres of Alberta interest were the Slave Lake-Mitsue Lake-Hondo region, 125 miles northwest of Edmonton, and the vast Athabasca oil sands, 280 miles northeast of Edmonton.

When Alberta completes its 1964 petroleum industry tally, it is expected to show record government revenues of $140,000,000 from royalties, rentals and sales of Crown leases and reservations.

Sales in the Mitsue region alone accounted for $29,000,000 of the $90,000,000 the government realized from leases and reservations.

At the year's fourth and last major lease sale in Alberta, interest in the Mitsue Lake-Hondo region prompted oil companies to pour a record $33,764,000 into provincial coffers, surpassing the single-sale record set in 1962. That was also the year the 12-month-old standard of $72,660,000 from Crown reserve and lease sales was established.

INDEPENDENTS PAY

It's significant that independent producers paid more than $5,000,000 for reserves in the region. Only a few weeks earlier, spokesmen for independents had warned that a new system of dividing markets among Alberta producers might prompt them to look elsewhere.

The independents contend that a new proration system, to be introduced over a four-year period starting May 1, 1965, favors the major integrated firms. Until now production limits for each company have been related to the number of producing wells it has. The new system will base maximum production on reserves of any given field.

Alberta had been mildly fearful that the independent producers might show signs of pulling out but this now seems unlikely.

The Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board, which drew up the new proration system, made two other significant announcements during the year.

One involved rearrangement of terms for development of the Athabasca oil sands. The other approved bids by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Co. and Alberta and Southern Gas Ltd. for permits to export an additional 4,700,000 million cubic feet of natural gas from Alberta in the next 25 years. At today's price the additional exports are worth $375,000,000.

Trans-Canada also proposed a new $200,000,000 gas pipeline from the West into the United States and back into Canada at Sarnia, Ont.

The oil sands order involved raising the allowable production there to 45,000 barrels a day from 31,500. Production from the sands, which contain estimated reserves of 626,000

For Elderly

Rides Offered
To Churches

Free transportation for the elderly to and from the church of their choice on Christmas Eve has been offered by the Citizens Band Radio Club.

The invitation was extended previously to members of the Silver Threads Society.

"Because of the great interest among our 20-car club members in the idea, the invitation is now extended to all elderly people throughout Greater Victoria," said Tom Bennett, secretary.

Anyone 65 and over may arrange for the service by phoning Mr. Bennett at 385-4026.

Most Anglican and all Roman Catholic churches will be having special services.

"A number of the elderly may wish to go to one of these services if their own church does not have one Christmas Eve," said Mr. Bennett.

A downtown radio dispatch office will be set up by the club to shuttle drivers back and forth between homes and churches.

Young Rebels Say:

Church of England
Living in Past

LONDON (AP) — A ginger group of frustrated clergy and laity—the angry young men—are fighting to restore a cutting edge to the old, state-established Church of England.

Right now, they say, some laugh at the Church, some resent it, some use it only to baptize their babies, get married or bury their dead, and some get along without it all their lives. Praising Christians number no more than 10 per cent of the population in Britain today.

To these angry young men the Church of England seems saddled with an outdated system, trying desperately to catch up with shifting populations and changes in society. They are not, they say, against authority—though some have criticized the Archbishop of Canterbury as being slow about reforms. In fact they claim 35 Anglican bishops among their honorary vice-presidents.

SPREADING IDEAS

The ginger group, called Parish and People started out some 35 years ago with the idea of spreading new ideas about the liturgical movement sweeping Europe.

Rev. Eric James, a young vicar with a crowded parish in Camberwell, south London, gave up his job there to become Parish and People's first full-time director. For nine months he has been stumping the country, getting small groups organized in every diocese.

"The whole idea is to get the Church to think and survive out in the world," he says. "People must know what it means to be dedicated in the world today."

STRESSING LAITY

Parish and People is committed to government of the Church by a single synod instead of the three-tier Church Assembly. It also wants the laity to have a much larger role in running things.

Some radicals among both clergy and laity are not too happy about the slow pace of reform set by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey.

He has been criticized for his attitude in the Honesty to God controversy, when he rebuked

Dr. John Robinson, the Bishop of Woolwich, who wrote a best-selling paperback suggesting that maybe the old idea of a personalized God was out of date and some new thinking on theology was needed.

MEANT SO MUCH

"There is no reason why the archbishop (or anyone else) should accept John Robinson's theology," wrote Peter Whiteley, an influential lay member of the Church Assembly, in the Anglican review Prism, "but Dr. Ramsey has never really shown that he is aware of the needs it tried to meet or why the book has meant so much to so many people."

Whiteley denied that there was any widespread Canterbury-must-go movement in the Church but he referred to "a groundswell of unease and disillusionment developing among the younger clergy and laity."

Eating Out Costs
Extra $25

Supper out cost Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fryer, 212 Robertson, $25 more than they expected.

During a less-than-two-hour absence from their home Monday night they lost that amount to a sneak thief.

Police said a thief climbed a light trellis, crossed the back porch of the house and forced open a bedroom window.

When the Fryers arrived home they found bedroom dresser drawers ransacked and $25 in cash missing. Their arrival apparently frightened the prowler away.

UN Arm Could Be Broken

Crisis May Close Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The Security Council, the top peace-keeping arm of the United Nations, may become inoperative for an indefinite period starting Jan. 1 because of the deadlock over UN members' financial responsibility.

The General Assembly cannot elect new council members in the absence of a Soviet-American agreement on sharing costs of UN peace-keeping operations. Agreement seemed remote. Diplomats pointed out that agreement "in principle" would not be enough to permit elections.

The assembly has been in session since Dec. 1 under a "non-voting" agreement. Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana was chosen president by acclamation but no other officers were elected.

The charter requires that three new council members be elected for two-year terms by the end of the year.

But Jordanian ambassador Abdul Monem Rifai said he saw almost no hope of installing a new security council by Jan. 1.

'Greatness Of France Needs Bomb'

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Georges Pompidou said Tuesday his government had placed "an absolute priority" on building nuclear weapons because it was the only means of keeping France a modern country.

"... the atomic weapon is the only way to make a politically great country at this time," he said.

Pompidou reviewed government action of the past four months in a nationwide television interview. The key topics were defence, the budget, the five-year plan, the Common Market, and the domestic labor and agricultural unrest.

The Salvation Army's toyland in the Johnson Street Thrift Shop opened Monday for distribution of more than 5,000 toys to welfare recipients.

Anyone on welfare who wants free toys for Christmas can obtain a voucher from their welfare worker for the toys. Distribution of the toys at Christmas is the result of a year-long effort by various social service organizations in the city.

This is the first year it has been handled by the social service department of the Salvation Army.

The W. H. Frederiksen family, 70 Caton Place, this year collected more than 1,000 toys for distribution by the toyland. Some of the toys had to be repaired and this also was done by the family, which collects the toys throughout the year.

Department stores, as well as individuals, donated toys.

Liquor Strike Continues

Quebec Drinkers Turning to Beer

MONTREAL (CP)—Chances of Quebecers celebrating Christmas with their usual home supply of liquor appear pretty slim.

The strike of 3,200

Liquor Board employees, which shut down all wine and liquor outlets in the province, was no closer to solution than it was when it began 18 days ago. And there are only two days left to Christmas.

Lorne Powers, board chairman, said there were no negotiations conducted Tuesday. "The union told us they would study our proposal for a seniority clause and they would phone us. We're waiting for their call."

BEER SELLING
Union officials were not available for comment.

At the moment, those likely to be hit hardest by the strike are wage earners who wait to get in their liquor supply with the Christmas week pay cheques. But some night clubs that had stocked up in anticipation of a strike were reported to have run out of supplies for the first time.

Beer sales continued to show sharp increases after the dearth of liquor caused by the prolonged strike.

Field Yields War Remains

DUNKERQUE, France (UPI)—A French farmer has discovered a British stronghold of the 1914-18 war in a Flanders field. It contained the skeletons of two soldiers, rifles and ammunition, belts, helmets, and even pipes and shaving brushes.

The farmer was plowing a field when he turned up a pair of army boots. He called police who found the remains of the stronghold under a large sheet of metal. The equipment was reported in reasonably good condition.

Christmas Tree Golf Moves to Uplands

A wet heavy fall of snow early on Tuesday morning has put the Royal Colwood Golf Club out of commission for the 11th annual Christmas Tree tournament on Saturday, Dec. 26.

Several inches lay on the course, and although there was some thawing, President Don Ross said it was unlikely that the snow, even under most favorable conditions, could disappear in time for the event.

The Daily Colonist is glad to announce that the president and directors of the Uplands Golf Course have kindly consented to step into the breach, and have offered the use of their course for the event, if subsequent weather conditions make play possible on Saturday.

Uplands president John Tribe informed The Daily Colonist that the club, which has had a 10-year association with the Christmas Tree tournament, was most anxious that the continuity of the event should not be broken for the first time.

The situation at the moment then is that if the course is open, the tournament will be played at Uplands instead of Colwood.

So far as is possible, the program will not be changed. The draw and starting times announced last Sunday for Royal Colwood will still apply, and the managers of the two clubs are co-operating with a view to handling catering arrangements for the 150 players.

The Daily Colonist is grateful to the Uplands Club for its fine gesture in giving the tournament a "second chance."

At the same time it must be pointed out that Uplands is also snow covered, and it could be that it will not have melted in time for Saturday.

The chances at the time of writing are perhaps not much better than 50-50, but those who have entered will be given further news in the Colonist on Thursday and Friday, by which time it is expected a firm decision can be made.

Leafs Edge Seals, 4-3 Thrive Under Pressure

By JIM TANG

Victoria Maple Leafs must have set a new club record at Memorial Arena last night—they held a one-goal lead for 15 minutes.

And it was the last 15 minutes of the game, bringing them a 4-3 win over San Francisco's shocked Seals, who had been aspiring to a somewhat higher position in the Western Hockey League than the one they wrestled from the Leafs less than two weeks ago.

Perhaps even more acceptable than the badly-needed two points was the proof in that final 15 minutes that the Leafs can hold up against the pressure of a trailing club which had let a game get out of its hands.

Spirit was the big item last night. Back Monday night after a road trip in which they lost four of five games played in eight days, the Leafs looked headed for another loss after a listless first period in which they dropped behind, 2-0.

But what a different club came out after that first intermission. It was an aggressive blue-and-white team, willing to knock heads, always going for the puck and refusing to be discouraged by bad breaks and penalties which stalled only temporarily a thoroughly-spirited attack and defence which upset a San Francisco club which had thought it had things pretty much under control.

Leafs cut the lead in the second minute of the second period, yielded only one goal—while they were two men short—in a stubborn defensive stand in which they played shorthanded for five successive minutes, then returned to the business of getting back what they had given away.

It took them until the third period, and how they did it will be something the Seals will remember for some time—11 for no other reason than that coach Bud Poile is likely to remind them of it on occasion. The Leafs scored three goals in less than three minutes before the period was five minutes old—and the tying and winning shots came when they were playing shorthanded.

Veteran Steve Witiuk, who appears to be finding his legs after joining the club late, got things started anew with a great rush in which he shifted around Jean-Marc Picard and then beat Bob Perreault with a fine shot.

Bobby Taylor got tagged almost immediately for charging Gerry Odrowski but the punacious rookie defenceman never enjoyed two minutes more.

Gordie Redahl, who can score from impossible-looking angles because he is a left-handed shot playing the right side, tied it up after taking a pass from John Sleaver, catching the far side with a high shot only 32 seconds after the steaming Taylor had settled down to serve his time.

FOUR BACK

Larry Keenan supplied what was to be the winner 86 seconds later, "breaking" away after getting the puck from goal-keeper Al Millar. Four Seals were back to defend Bob Perreault and everybody got too casual about it as Keenan swung around Gary Dornhoefer and whipped a shot past the over-confident San Francisco goal-keeper.

One goal leads, particularly so early in the third period, haven't meant much in Victoria but this night it was different.

BEST EFFORTS

With veteran defencemen Claude Labrosse, voted the star of the game, and Bill Shvets, with perhaps his best effort of the season, leading a dour defence, the Leafs held out.

Millar, more than making amends for guessing wrong on the first goal, came up with at least three brilliant saves, and all three forward lines did their part with hard skating and tenacious checking.

It was a pity there were only 1,780 fans out. The faithful, as they always eventually are, were more than rewarded.

Hawaii Acquires 28 Players

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Houston, business manager of Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club, announced Tuesday that 28 players from the International League team have been transferred to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League.

The Leafs, who had a partial working agreement previously with Washington Senators made the transfers in view of prospects that they may have a working agreement with Boston Red Sox of the American League.

Hawaii is the new Triple-A farm team of the Senators. The transfer reduces the Leaf roster to two players. They are second-baseman Bob Sadowski and pitcher John Anderson.

By JIM MURRAY

Well, it's that time of the year again. Ho, Ho, Ho, and all that jazz. Chestnuts roasting in every column. I would like, as a service to you, to cull the best of the Christmas books you might want to give to a loved one, particularly the kids, with special emphasis on the inspirational volumes.

So, with apologies to Clifton Fadiman and Art Buchwald, not to mention Ralph Henry Barbour and Walter Camp, here are the best of the lot:

"THE FURTHER ADVENTURES OF BLACK BEAUTY"

—This heart-warming tale of a lass and her horse should be in every library. It tells the touching story of a horse found in his stall with a broken leg and the trainer wants to shoot it when the young girl of the family (see about Loretta Young for the role) throws herself across the animal and says, "No, no. Let me try to save him." And she makes a special sling and feeds him sugar for three years and, lo and behold, he can run again even though he has a slight limp. Then one day they put a clock on him and he breaks the track record by 10 seconds; so they enter him in the Kentucky derby and nobody thinks he has a chance.

And it turns out he doesn't. Because, coming out of the starting gate, his leg snaps again and he racks up the whole field and three other horses die with him and two jockeys get broken collar-bones and double-vision. And the trainer says, "you see three years ago I told you to shoot him. But does anybody listen to me? Not when you but those big beautiful eyes, they don't." And the girl says, "I'm sorry."

"FIGHTING FOOTBALL—OR, 40 YEARS WITH THE FIGHTING FLEMISH"

—This tells the story of old coach Rockhead and his famous football team climaxed in the famous locker room scene where the team is behind 100-6 at the half and the coach stands there with tears streaming down his cheeks. He says, "boys, my sainted grandmother is right now at death's door and the only thing I know of that can save her is for us to go out there and fight, fight, fight. And win this game against the army." Just then, the phone rang, and the coach answered it and listened for a minute. Then he hung up and said to the boys, "That was the doctor, boys. He said it wouldn't mean a thing to her condition one way or the other whether we won or lost. So forget it."

"TEN SECONDS TO PLAY"

—This is the story of the 97-pound, weaking who went out for football and everyone laughed and laughed. So, he lifted weights and built himself up and practised with the varsity for four years. Finally, one day, in The Big Game, there were only 10 seconds to play and the coach looked down and saw this kid and said, "All right, son, for four years you've been begging me to let you play and my entire backfield is wiped out. Go in there and show what you're made of."

So the kid went in and lumbered.

"THE KILLER INSTINCT"

—This is the story of a tough kid from the slums who came up the hard way and finally became middleweight champion of the world. And one night he was defending his title when the Mafia (they were having their annual parade that day) came in the dressing room and said, "Kid, we've got big money riding on this fight. We'll give you $100,000 to throw it." The kid stood up, a steely glint in his eye and he said, "Big Tony, I was born on the other side of the tracks and I was a tough kid. A lot of people had faith in me, like the warden, and a lot of kids are looking up to me and I don't want to disappoint them. So, could you make it out to 'cash'?"

"THE HEART OF BASEBALL"

—Tells the untold story of "Sluggo" McCoy. All the public saw of Sluggo was the swinging brazier. Few knew of the many goods he performed, but they are all recounted here by his good friend (and press agent) Sick O'Fant. Few knew that Sluggo was a sucker for a hard-luck story. Anybody who came to him down and out got a loan. At only eight per cent, and once an old lady's hat blew off and Sluggo told her which way it went.

Sluggo never liked to get any publicity on his hospital trips, but the book tells of the time he went to see little Butch Kelly. The kid was dangerously ill and Old Sluggo tried not to blubber as he looked at the wan little face and said, "Kid, just for you, this afternoon against the Cardinals, I'm going to hit three home runs." And little Butch looked bravely up at him through his tears and said "Mr. McCoy, how could that possibly help me?"

"HOW TO PLAY POLO"

Also big this year are the "how to" books. "HOW TO PLAY POLO." "HOW TO CROCODILE WRESTLE." There is also a book modelled after Jockey Eddie Arcaro's book, "I RIDE TO WIN." It's written by jockey Cnn Arlist and it's title "I RIDE TO LOSE." Its chapter headings include "HOW TO PULL A HORSE," "FAVORITES I HAVE GOTTEN BEAT ON," "HOW TO SIGNAL YOUR BOOKIE IN THE POST PARADE," "HOW TO STEER HORSES INTO TROUBLE," "HOW TO ARRANGE A BETTING COUP," "SHOPPING FOR A PRICE AND HOW TO GET IT" and "BOAT RACING ON DRY LAND" or "DO YOU REALLY NEED EVERY RIDER IN ON IT OR ARE FOUR ENOUGH?"

"SUNDAY'S HERO"

—This tells the fictionalized story of the regeneration of a football hero set down for betting on games he was in. The book's most moving scene comes when the tearfully promises the commissioner "if you reinstate me, you'll be sorry. Incidentally, neither will I." So the commissioner reinstates him and he says, "do you mind if I use your phone, Commissioner?" And the commissioner says, "go ahead" and the hero calls his bookie and says "it's O.K., Joe. Same deal as two years ago."

"SILVER BOY"

—The story of a fighter whose mother wants him to be a violinist. So he sneaks out at night and fights, and he's up for a shot at the championship when his mother finds out and says "Low-life. For this, I scrimped and saved. So you could break your hands fighting with a bunch of loafers." And he says "But, ma, my hands are all right. Look. But she makes him go back to Carnegie Hall and give up fighting and the night of the big concert his accompanist accidentally slams the lid of the piano down on his hand and all his fingers are broken. Now he not only can't play the violin, he can't even fight. So he's working in a flour store.

By the way, you can't get any of these through the hook-of-the-month club.

Clay Says Fight in June Cassius 'Rarin' to Go

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight title return bout will be held in June in Boston, Clay's manager said Tuesday.

"The exact date hasn't been set yet but it will be in June," said Angelo Dundee, trainer and manager of Clay. "Cassius is feeling fine and rarin' to go."

In Boston there had been reports that the postponed fight would be held April 19.

The fight had been set for Boston Nov. 16 but was postponed when Clay had to undergo an emergency hernia operation the Friday night before the Monday date.

The World Boxing Association does not recognize the Clay-Liston bout, having stripped Clay of his title because of a return-bout arrangement he made with Liston prior to their first championship clash. The WBA opposes return-bout contracts.

Ontario Imports B.C.'s Kokanee

MAPLE, Ont. (CP)—A $1,000,000-a-year fishing operation may result from a fish-planting program being started by the Ontario department of lands and forests.

Officials of the department's southern research station at Maple, 20 miles north of Toronto, said the fish being transplanted from British Columbia and parts of the Western United States is known variously as the kokanee, kikkanny, silverfish or redfish.

BREAD, BUTTER

Frank Mahar, who came to the Ontario department after 12 years with the B.C. fish and game branch, described the kokanee as the bread and butter of the B.C. tourist fishing resorts.

Officials said the kokanee program will take four years and is expected to cost between $30,000 and $40,000. With annual plantings, the department hopes that cyclical fluctuations in fish spawning can be avoided since most of the kokanee will mature at about four years of age.

The department's initial plans are for Lakes Ontario and Huron.

BRING EGGS

Last September, a crew from Ontario went to British Columbia to help collect eggs and bring them back after partial incubation.

Officials haven't made any predictions about the kokanee's reaction to Great Lake waters, but they hope they have found an answer for commercial fishermen whose catches have been dwindling in past years.

The kokanee, with flesh resembling that of the sockeye salmon, has been known to grow to 24 inches and eight pounds.

Aussie Team To Pass Up U.S. Tourneys

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australia's official touring tennis team will bypass the U.S. championships next year. The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia made that known Monday night in announcing it would send a young team overseas.

The team wasn't identified but is expected to include Owen Davidson, John Newcombe, Tony Roche and Bill Bowrey. Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle, the country's top Davis Cup stars, will travel independently and probably will play at Forest Hills.

Teachers Win Higher Pay

NANAIMO—Teachers in the Nanaimo school district have been awarded a compromise 5.7 per cent pay increase on their basic salary scale, effective Jan. 1.

The increase was announced by school board officials Tuesday following an arbitration board hearing the day before. The officials said adjustments were also made in various administrative allowance categories.

CHEMUNUS—The foundation has been laid for the new commercial building which will complete the Johnson block on Willow Street between the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and the Overwaitea store. The section of the building facing Willow will be the new home of Paterson's Pharmacy Ltd. and will allow improved display facilities while the rear of the building will be used as office space.

WESTHOE—A native of this community and a general contractor here for many years, Athol Sidney Lloyd died suddenly Tuesday at his home in Sallair. Mr. Lloyd, 75, won the Military Medal as a soldier in the First World War and had lived in Sallair for the past 13 years. Funeral services will be held from the First chapel in Duncan at 3 p.m. today.

COMOX—A joint party sponsored by members of the RCMP and special police of RCAF Station Comox was held Monday night to honor Warrant Officer J. Horton of the RCAF and Cpl. O. Bialke of the Cumberland RCMP detachment. Both men have received new postings and will be leaving the district shortly.

YOUBOU—Last rites will be held in St. Edward's Roman Catholic Church at 10 a.m. today for Donald Remington, 71, a 22-year Youbou resident and native of Quebec who died Monday in hospital at Duncan.

CHEMUNUS—A life membership in the United Church Women's organization was given at a recent meeting of the Chemunus church women's auxiliary to Mrs. E. G. Jackson in appreciation of her outstanding service to the church for many years. Mrs. W. H. James was re-elected president at the meeting and other officers are Mrs. A. Porter, secretary, and Mrs. G. Hutchinson, treasurer.

DUNCAN—Frederick Arthur Taylor, 60, a 32-year resident of this area and an employee of Hillcrest Lumber Co., died recently in King's Daughters' Hospital. Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday from the First chapel here.

UCLEULET—The Ucleulet public library will be closed from Wednesday evening until the morning of Jan. 4, officials announced this week.

LAKE COWICHAN—A large crowd braved inclement weather to attend the Christmas

Special Meeting Today

NANAIMO—City council will hold a special meeting at 3:30 p.m. today to complete passage of a new trades licensing bylaw.

The bylaw is required following provincial legislation which changed municipal licensing in two respects—retail stores now will pay on an area basis only and resorts and similar operations will escape two licence fees a year.

NET MONDAY—Council set the date for the short meeting at its annual stewardship meeting Monday night.

Reports were given by departing alderman Douglas Greer, who is retiring, and George Bryce, who was defeated.

Ald. Greer said he was "appalled" by the public's lack of interest in council meetings and said the proof was the fact few people ever came to the meetings.

GREATER LENGTH—He suggested council explain at greater length the reasons behind its decisions, so the press can pass on the explanations to the public.

Ald. Bryce expressed regret that 100 feet of wooden water pipe remain in the city. He set a goal 12 years ago of replacement of all wooden pipe.

Council agreed to meet the provincial welfare department's request for information on district residents on relief and unemployed. The information is needed for winter works hiring schedules.

The Monday meeting, also in the Legion hall, was sponsored by the Cowichan Legion branch and the Cowichan 744 Air Cadet Squadron.

The meeting discussed four basic items—accommodation, transportation, fraternization at the cadet level and re-establishment of the tri-services meeting which was a great success when last held two years ago.

Accommodation was left for later decision as each corps has its own building, although some are temporary.

BUS SERVICE?—The group decided to study plans for acquisition of a bus service or similar transportation.

Re-establishment of the tri-services affair was put over until the Jan. 21 meeting. Legion official Ted Sutton said the meeting of Cowichan area groups could bring up to 2,000 people to the area for the two days of events.

GROUPS NAMED—The four groups are the Admiral Maignay sea cadet corps, the younger Navy League cadets, the army's 2422 cadet corps and the air cadets.

Officials of the newly-formed committee are Mr. Sutton and Sandy Maynard of the Legion, co-chairmen; Roger Dyck, treasurer; Howard Nelson, secretary, and David Shepherd public relations.

FAREWELL PARTY—One of the firms for which he had done accounting work here offered him the position.

A farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Clayton, who have two sons, was held in the Legion Hall.

Gifts presented to the Claytons included an engraved mug to Mr. Clayton from the Legion branch, several Indian carvings by Luke Swan of Ahousat, an oil painting of Long Beach and some wooden trays.

LAKE COWICHAN—Kinmen and Kinettes of this community entertained 75 children at their annual Christmas party during the weekend in St. Aidan's Anglican Church Hall. A puppet show was staged by Norman Woods of Duncan. The Kinmen will hold a turkey shoot Dec. 27 at the Fish and Game Association range near Meade Creek and a bottle drive Jan. 9, with proceeds from both going to the jello drive.

Building Tilt Clears Hotel—CAIRO (CP)—Police evacuated more than 100 tourists from a hotel in downtown Cairo Tuesday after a 19-storey building nearing completion next door started tilting.

Under construction five years, it developed a growing list three months ago.

Authorities decided to demolish the top five floors and resume work from there.

Death Accidental

TOFINO—A coroner's jury has ruled Emery Ronald Branscombe, 61, of Ucleulet, met accidental death Dec. 10 when a bus in which he was a passenger collided with an ore carrier on the eight-mile road between Brynson Iron Mines and Toquart Bay.

The jury attached no blame to anyone. Two other people in the bus and the driver of the empty ore carrier suffered minor injuries.

More Snow Forecast

White Yule Likely

Special to the Colonist

Chances for a white Christmas in the major Vancouver Island centres north of Victoria improved Tuesday as the last of the weekend snow stuck around and more light snow was forecast.

The general outlook for the next day or so was a few snow flurries along the east Island coast and a few rain showers in the less-settled southwestern area. Little change was expected in temperatures.

SNOW TIRES, CHAINS

Police said snow tires and chains are mandatory on the Malahat, the Hump to Port Alberni is slippery on the west side, the Alberni-Tofino road is "difficult" and snow tires should be used in the Courtenay and Campbell River districts.

Main roads in the Cowichan Valley and the Nanaimo area were reported in good driving condition but police said many side roads are not plowed and are in bad shape.

TWO ACCIDENTS

Two damaging accidents were reported.

Eric Fried of Lake Cowichan and his wife Elsie are in satisfactory condition in King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan after their car and an empty flatbed trailer collided Tuesday afternoon on the Cowichan Lake Road two miles west of Faldi.

TWO INJURED

Mr. Fried has a possible broken leg and his wife suffered bruises, lacerations and shock. Trailer driver Florent Beauvage of Duncan was not hurt.

Damage to the Fried car was estimated at about $1,000 while the trailer unit was extensively damaged in the rear.

NO ONE HURT

No one was hurt when an industrial propane gas truck from Nanaimo rolled on its side in a ditch on the highway at Chemainus. Driver Donald Gordon Roming of Nanaimo pulled over to one side to let some cars go by and the wheels slid into the ditch.

Several wreckers were needed to return the truck to the road.

FRACTURED LEG

Earlier in Chemainus, Edward Jones of Crofton received a fractured leg when his car turned over in the snow and Mrs. C. S. Savory of Chemainus broke her left wrist in a fall while walking downtown.

Most areas reported new snow Tuesday, but in small amounts. Telephone and telegraph trouble occurred in Duncan and other districts.

Salt Spring

Island

Digs

Out

GANGES — Highway department crews were working around the clock Tuesday to clear some 200 miles of snow-covered roads on Salt Spring Island.

"We have a snowplow, a grader and two cats working right now and I hope by morning we will have every road open," a roads foreman said.

Worst road on the island was Musgrave, which has been cleared. Three feet of snow was removed from Cranberry Road which runs up the side of Maxwell Mountain.

FOUR FEET

Earlier in the day, an Oak Bay couple visiting relatives atop Mount Maxwell telephoned home that they were stranded by "four feet of snow."

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Watling, 2040 Chaucer, went up the mountain Monday to pick up a load of eggs from Roy Belmes at the Bar R-B ranch and got snowed in.

They apparently took a tractor down the road to the home of a neighbor, where they telephoned Victoria to say they would be home again when the snow plow cleared the road.

Peterson

Snow Gives Children Early School Holiday

DUNCAN—Only eight of the 23 elementary schools and none of the four secondary schools in the Cowichan school district opened Tuesday as the pre-Christmas term came to an end.

District schools superintendent Art Jones announced Tuesday afternoon the eight schools which remained open until noon were Cowichan Station, Crofton, Somenos, Tansor, Alexander, Koksilah, York Road and Duncan Elementary.

He said the other 15 elementary schools closed shortly after 9 a.m. because of the weather and poor attendance.

Only six pupils went to Glenora Elementary, where 56 are enrolled. Not one of Bench Elementary's more than 100 pupils turned up.

At George Bonner Junior Secondary School in Cobble Hill, 21 of the 220 pupils arrived for the first classes but were sent home almost immediately.

Mr. Jones said the secondary schools were closed because most of their students go to classes by bus.

Officials had announced at the school board meeting Monday night all district schools would be open Tuesday but no buses would be available.

However, said Mr. Jones, few children turned up at most schools and some teachers were not able to get to their classrooms because of road conditions.

Mr. Peterson said the present trustees have been asked "to continue in an advisory capacity and to submit their names to the electorate when the time comes for election of the new board."

Mr. Lucas would set up a plan for representation of northern communities on the new area-wide board and arrange for the first election of new trustees.

NEW SCHOOL SITE But in the meantime the government appointee would pick the site of a new district secondary school, work out the district's 1965 budget and pick the new district's first secretary-treasurer.

Island's Northwest

Nine School Districts To Be Merged Into Two

Nine school districts in northwestern Vancouver Island will be consolidated into two large units Jan. 1 in a provincial government move to keep pace with an unexpected population explosion.

The provincial cabinet Tuesday terminated the terms of office of all school trustees in the nine districts, some recently elected or re-elected but most appointed.

Two provincial officials were named official trustees with full school board powers.

One of the new districts will embrace the present Alert Bay and Quatsino school district. The other will take in seven small, unattached districts along the west coast of the Island, including Zeballos and Gold River, site of a new pulp mill town planned by Talsco Co.

NORTHERN DISTRICT Education Minister Peterson said the new northern district will be administered by R. F. Lucas of Courtenay, now superintendent of schools for Alert Bay and Quatsino districts.

The minister said he regards the appointment of Mr. Lucas and J. A. Dion, new official trustee for the west coast district, as "temporary."

REGULAR BUSINESS "They will continue in office only until such time as conditions permit the election of regular school boards," he said.

Mr. Lucas would set up a plan for representation of northern communities on the new area-wide board and arrange for the first election of new trustees.

Unfair Practice Claim Denied by Alderman

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—Complaints of unfair city practice in equipment rentals and the supply of sand and gravel were described Tuesday as "ridiculous" by Ald. James Saunders, chairman of the city public works committee.

Four officials of Cowichan area trucking and equipment firms staged a downtown protest march Monday in some of their equipment to voice the complaint.

SNOW REMOVAL Their spokesman said only one firm was engaged by the city for recent snow removal and city officials said later Armour and Saunders Ltd. did some of the work.

Ald. Saunders shot back Tuesday that he is one of the principals and an employee of Armour and Saunders Ltd., "which permits me legally to do business with any municipal body."

He added that "I have nothing to do with the hiring of equipment whatsoever. It is all done through the city administration and the works foreman."

around whenever an emergency arises.

"Our equipment is always held in readiness for the city," he said. "During the heavy snowfall, I donated two days of my own time to see we got rid of the snow as quickly as possible."

"I threw in these two days and never would ask for any remuneration because I am interested in the community."

STAGED PROTEST

The four businessmen who staged the protest march were Hugh Ellison of Ellison Excavating, Ted Boyle of Gravel Hill Supplies, George Watt of Bill Field Trucking and Dick Brooks of Brooks Contracting.

Ald. Saunders said Mr. Ellison conceded Tuesday he did not have a city licence and obtained one at city hall.

NO CITY LICENCE

"None of these men live in the community and none had a city licence," the alderman said.

He claimed one of the four men has "reasonably steady employment" at the Crofton pulp mill and "on several occasions" has worked for North Cowichan municipality.

PRIVATE JOBS

Ald. Saunders said he tried during the past weekend to get in touch with two of the four businessmen by phone. He wanted them to do private jobs his firm could not do.

He said their wives told him they could not help because they were working from dawn to dusk
